Slowdowns, Featherbedding Practices Charged at Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., called for more testimony today about missile base strikes and work slowdowns he pictured as something that "borders on subversion."

McClellan said he wants additional details from missile contractors working at Cape Canaveral, Fla., and other bases before hearing from labor unions under fire in hearings before his senate investigations subcommittee.

Henry Gable, a Texas electrical contractor working on six Canaveral projects, swore yesterday that labor union leaders there have deliberately slowed down the missile program.

No Reds Involved
"There is no way the Communists could do this nation's missile effort the damage done by labor at Cape Canaveral," Gable said.

He said with emphasis he believes no Communists are involved in what he called "rotten" abuse of union power at missile bases.

Gable heads the Gable Electric Service of Dallas. He said he hopes for a chance to send his Texas staff onto his six Canaveral jobs to show their fellow union members what can be done and the savings possible.

In its first two days of inquiry the subcommittee has received sworn testimony from many witnesses that strikes, slowdowns and featherbedding practices have held back the pace and grossly inflated the costs of missile development, testing and production.

Costs Extra Millions
No witness has given a closer estimate than "millions of dollars" for the extra costs.

Robert E. Dunne, a subcommittee staff investigator, and J. J. Bevis, a government accountant, teamed up yesterday to tell about well paid ditchdiggers and other workers at the Vandenberg missile base.

Homemakers in Limelight in Tonight's Paper

Dr. Robert Samp, Medical Director of the Wisconsin Division of the American Cancer Society, spoke before a large audience gathered at Seymour Union High School last evening to honor the area's homemakers at the annual Homemakers' Achievement Night.

An interesting article on the meeting, which included groups of women who meet throughout the year to discuss and work together on activities of the home, and a review of Dr. Samp's address, appear on Page C3 of this evening's Appleton Post-Crescent.

Kennedy Proposes Ethical Standards in Government

Stresses Conflict of Interest Problem in Message to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy called today for legislation laying down both broad guidelines and specific rules for a high moral tone in the conduct of the people's business, with emphasis on the problem of conflict of interest.

In a special message to the House and Senate Kennedy also announced his intention to set up his own special office of ethics to coordinate activities in that field in the administrative departments and agencies.

Stating his "firm confidence in the integrity and dedication of those who work for our government," Kennedy said few instances of official impropriety have been uncovered and they "usually have not suggested any widespread departure from high standards of ethics and moral conduct."

He added there have been enough incidents to constitute a warning that the laws and regulations "are not adequate to the changed role of the federal government or to the changing conditions of our society."

Complex Problems
Furthermore, the President went on, ethical problems themselves have grown so complex with the nation's economic and social development that they often "defy common sense solutions by men of good will."

He said that difficulty is multiplied by a lack of general regulatory guidelines. In that situation, Kennedy said, "many thoughtful observers have expressed concern about the moral tone of government, and about the political confidence resumed today but Tshombe was not taking part."

The U.N. said its Ethiopian garrison in Coquilhatville had not intervened on behalf of Tshombe because their intervention had not been requested.

Assembly Gets Budget Measure From Committee
MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Assembly today received the 1961-62 biennial budget bill as amended by the Republican-controlled Joint Finance Committee.

It calls for a spending level of about $490 million. The governor's original request asked $503 million for operation of the state for 1961-62.

The bill was introduced by Everett Bidwell R-Portage, co-chairman of the Joint Finance Committee.

The largest cuts made by the committee would take $6.6 million from Nelson's request for higher education and $5 million from the State Building Commission.

The Legislature completed action on a resolution that would attempt to reactivate a reciprocal agreement that Wisconsin and Minnesota had on income tax levies. The resolution was adopted unanimously by the Assembly. It received Senate approval Wednesday.

Tshombe Still Believed Held By Kasavubu

Katanga Province President Kept From Flying Home

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — Troops of President Joseph Kasavubu's Leopoldville government apparently were still holding President Moise Tshombe of Katanga Province today, or at least preventing him from flying to Elisabethville, his capital. The Congolese troops arrested Tshombe yesterday as he prepared to board a plane to quit the political conference at Coquilhatville, 375 miles up the Congo River. Tshombe walked out on the conference after blasting an agreement Kasavubu had made with the U.N. command.

Reported Released
Reports to the U.N. command this morning said Tshombe had been roughly up, released after a brief detention and would fly home this morning.

At noon a U.N. spokesman said the Katanga leader and his party were reported still at the Coquilhatville airport. A Leopoldville government source said the troops were still holding Tshombe.

Other officials of Kasavubu's government denied Tshombe had ever been arrested. They said he had been prevented from leaving "by the spontaneous will of the local people."

The government here said the political conference resumed today but Tshombe was not taking part.

The U.N. said its Ethiopian garrison in Coquilhatville had not intervened on behalf of Tshombe because their intervention had not been requested.

"If a request is received for protection," said a spokesman, "President Tshombe will be treated exactly the same way as other personalities have been treated in the past. The United Nations will ask that he be well treated and dealt with by due process of law."

Oral Polio Vaccine Will be Available To Public by 1962
CHICAGO (AP)—An oral anti-polio vaccine that can be consumed like candy—and which contains live polio virus—will be available to the public by 1962, says Surgeon General Luther L. Terry.

The pill vaccine, Terry said, probably will be less expensive than Salk vaccine, and—like the Salk series—would be administered in a series of four with an interval of several weeks between each dose.

He told a news conference yesterday live virus vaccine has been used in eastern Europe for several years. But the U.S. Public Health Service refused to allow its circulation in the United States until methods of purifying the live vaccine had been perfected.

He said the first pills approved by the agency should be ready late this year.

Foreign Legion Regiment Split Up in Algiers

Furnished Military Backing for Revolt Against De Gaulle

ALGIERS (AP) — Tough French riot forces today surrounded the paratroop camp of Zeralda to split up a Foreign Legion regiment, one of two that furnished the military backbone of the Algerian insurrection. Earlier reports had said three fugitive generals of the rebel junta had hidden out at the camp. Other accounts indicated they may have fled into the interior with some of the legionnaires.

The three are Gens. Raoul Salan, Andre Zeller and Edmond Jouhaud. The leader of the insurrection, Gen. Maurice Challe, surrendered and now is in a Paris prison.

Informed sources said the enlisted men at Camp Zeralda, 25 miles outside Algiers, will be taken to the legion headquarters at Sidi Bel Abbas. They reported the officers will be kept at Zeralda "at the disposition of military authorities."

Police and soldiers sweeping through Algiers during a night-long curfew rounded up 5,000 arms hidden by civilians. The sweep prompted long lines of civilians to turn in their arms at police stations today.

The government spokesman said all French regiments in Algeria—including the two Foreign Legion units that participated in the abortive coup—were now taking orders from the government of President Charles de Gaulle.

Estimate 1,000 Whites Killed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—The South African Press Association correspondent in Luanda estimated approximately 1,000 white men, women and children have been killed by African terrorists since the outbreak of violence in the Portuguese West African colony of Angola about six weeks ago.

The South African correspondent said official casualty lists were running far behind authoritative unofficial estimates.

Guarded truck convoys continue bringing to Luanda white refugees from areas where Portuguese soldiers are trying to wipe out terrorist bands, the report said. Some of the convoys are attacked, causing casualties among the white soldiers guarding them.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A complex "space telescope" was fired into orbit today to explore radiation mysteries of the universe.

The 95-pound satellite named Explorer XI sped away from this test center at 9:17 a.m. EST in the nose of a 76-foot Juno II rocket. All four stages of the booster ignited successfully and propelled the payload into orbit at nearly 18,000 miles an hour.

Path Not Determined
More than two hours after launch the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that "tracking stations at Johannesburg, South Africa; Woomeera, Australia; San Diego, Calif., and East Grand Forks, Minn., confirmed that the satellite is in orbit."

The exact orbital path and other details were not immediately known. The telescope was aimed at a course which would swing it between 300 and 750 miles above the earth.

Project officials said good signals were being received from the satellite. The success gives U. S. scientists the world's first astronomical observatory in space.

The assignment is to study space rays outside the air envelope which interferes with reception on earth.

The shot looked good from the start.

At a news conference later Charles Cole, the project engineer of Jet Propulsion Laboratories which made the upper stages of the rocket, said the launching ap-

The Laotian government today proposed a cease-fire at noon tomorrow as fears rose among some westerners in Laos that resistance to pro-Communist rebel attacks was nearing collapse.

The call for a cease-fire was broadcast by radio and given to the Russians for relay to the Pathet Lao rebels, but there was no indication of any quick agreement from the rebel side.

Western sources in Vientiane, the administrative capital of Laos, said there was no report of major fighting since the rebels yesterday captured Muong Sai, a trading village 55 miles north of Luang Prabang, the royal capital.

These informed quarters referred to the drooping morale of royal army soldiers, battered by the communist-supplied Pathet Lao in the weeks of political maneuvering for a truce.

Airlift Continues
Whether the new airlift of arms to royal troops, launched yesterday by the U.S. Air Force, could stem the tide was a question. Washington declared the flow of arms will continue until a cease-fire is reached.

Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, the commander of royal military forces, proposed a peace meeting in Luang Prabang tomorrow between the contending factions. So far the Pathet Lao has insisted such a meeting must be held in rebel territory.

Both sides have agreed to a cease-fire but the rebels appear in no hurry to agree to a date as long as they continue to extend their control over wide areas of Laos.

In New Delhi, the three-power commission to supervise a truce haggled over the same issues that wrecked the commission in 1958 — freedom of movement in rebel territory. Members are Canada, Communist Poland and India.

The Canadians said the key to the dispute is the mobility of the inspectors. The Poles oppose this as they did in 1958. India, as chairman, sat on the sidelines until the first formal meeting in New Delhi tomorrow.

New York Times Hit By Wildcat Walkout Of Printers Union
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times was hit last night by a wildcat walkout of printers, causing cancellation of its first edition and creating publication delays for the three other major morning newspapers in the city.

Arbitration machinery for settling the dispute was tentatively scheduled to be set up today. The work stoppage brought an announcement from all seven major New York dailies that they would suspend publication because of "irresponsible and unlawful conduct" by members of the Printers' Union. The action was not necessary. The New York papers operate on a "one-for-all, all-for-one" basis in relations with labor unions.

The stoppage at the Times came after a printer was fired by a foreman following an argument. At first all the Times printers left their jobs, and the first edition was cancelled. But enough of them returned later to turn out a 44-page paper. A 72-page edition had been planned.

Charlie to Cover Historic Shot

Post-Crescent Reporter House Will Be on Astronaut Recovery Ship

When the United States fires its first astronaut into space next week, the Appleton Post-Crescent will have one of its staff members aboard the main recovery vessel.

Word received from Washington this week announced the selection of Post-Crescent reporter Charles House as a pool reporter for the first rocket launching of a Mercury astronaut.

A pool reporter is one chosen from among many to represent all of them at a specific event. It becomes his duty to get as much information as he can for relay to the other reporters assigned to the same story.

Selection of the pool reporters for the historic launching was made by the standing committee on correspondents of the Senate press gallery.

House is one of 350 reporters and photographers chosen to cover the various phases of the "suborbital shot" but one of the very few selected for assignment on the main recovery vessel.

According to a special dispatch from the Associated Press, the latter will be manned by two newspaper reporters representing morning and evening papers. Added to these will be representatives of other media.

'Abort' Area
While House and some other selected newspapermen will be aboard the main recovery vessel, the major part of the reporting corps will be on two navy destroyers which will be deployed about 20 miles from the expected target point.

In all, there will be six reporter pools created to cover the event.

The first will be located at the launching site.

The second will be stationed in what the navy calls "the abort area," which is the expected

House Clears Way On Compromise Bill

Senate Gets Proposal Carrying Benefits for Needy Children With Unemployed Parents

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate plans to send President Kennedy today legislation carrying an estimated $200 million in benefits for needy children of unemployed parents.

The House quickly cleared the compromise bill Wednesday. No Senate opposition is apparent.

This will be the sixth of the 16 items on Kennedy's legislative priority list to reach the White House. He submitted the list in February and has since expanded it considerably.

The fifth point to be cleared by Congress, the $394 million depressed areas bill, was passed by the House Wednesday and sent to the White House. Kennedy is expected to sign it today.

Full Agreement

Another major item on the list, minimum wage legislation, virtually was wrapped up in final form Wednesday by Senate-House conferees. Full agreement is to be reached on Monday, with floor votes coming up later next week. A bitter fight is expected in the House, since the compromise bill will be close to the Senate version.

Two other of the 16 points are expected to make progress today in Senate subcommittees.

The housing group plans to complete its work on the President's $3.2 billion 1961 housing legislation.

School Grants

The education subcommittee headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., begins its closed-door consideration of the $2.3 billion public grade and high school grant bill.

Morse's group is expected to approve this measure 8-1 although it is uncertain how quickly the action will come. The subcommittee completed lengthy public hearings on the legislation last month.

The dependent children bill was asked by the President as emergency legislation because of high jobless rates in many communities.

Present Program

Under the present aid to dependent children relief program, payments are available only to orphans or to abandoned children. The bill changes this to provide the benefits to children in families where the breadwinner is out of work.

The new program is optional with the states and runs 14 months to June 30, 1962. The administration estimates only about half the states will participate but that these will be ones with the majority of the eligible families.

Kennedy Plans First Speaking Trip in Nation

President to Address Meetings in New York, Chicago

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy takes off for New York this afternoon on his first speaking trip since his inauguration.

Tonight he addresses a New York dinner given by the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, and Friday flies to Chicago to address a Cook County Democratic dinner.

The President's talk to the publishers is likely to bear on the role of the press in crisis-ridden times and could range over both international and domestic problems.

Domestic Topics

The emphasis in his Chicago speech is expected to be on domestic topics.

The Democratic dinner in Chicago will be the first party rally Kennedy has attended since taking office, but White House aides said his remarks would not be partisan in a political sense.

Kennedy is due to leave National Airport for New York at about mid-afternoon after spending the earlier part of the day at work. He called the National Security Council together this morning for its second meeting within a week.

Stayed in Capitol

The President has left Washington in the three months of his presidency to confer with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan at Key West, Fla.; to spend an Easter vacation at his family's home in West Palm Beach, Fla.; and to meet former President Dwight D. Eisenhower at Camp David in Maryland last Saturday. Otherwise he has stayed in Washington except for weekends at his rented estate near Middleburg, Va.

In New York he may decide to receive callers—possibly U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson—at his hotel suite. His schedule leaves Friday morning open before his mid-afternoon takeoff for Chicago.

Mrs. Kennedy will not accompany the President on the two-day trip. Kennedy will return to Washington this weekend and may spend part of the time at Glen Ora, his Middleburg retreat.

UW Med School Will Get Funds From Kennedy

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A substantial amount of money from the Kennedy Foundation for the financing of special studies in mental retardation has been assured for the University of Wisconsin, according to reliable sources here.

The money will be granted from trust funds established by the family of President John F. Kennedy. Arrangements with the University Medical School have reportedly been completed, and a public announcement is expected soon.

Negotiations for the financing of the special study project on the Wisconsin campus have been underway for many months, but announcement was withheld during the presidential campaign year.

Swanky Tailor Shop Looted of $20,000 As Man Watches

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A swanky Pittsburgh tailoring shop was looted of $20,000 in merchandise Wednesday night while a passerby looked on thinking he was watching a window-trimming job.

The onlooker, James H. Toner of Steubenville, Ohio, told police he was watching from across the street as a man stuffed merchandise—mostly men's jeweled accessories—into a briefcase.

Another man was standing in the doorway.

Enthusiastic Backers Attend Hearing on Repeal of Income Tax

Resolution Also Asks Government To Avoid Any Business Enterprise

MADISON (AP)—A resolution "monstrous thing" that is hurting calling for repeal of federal income taxes and a prohibition against the government's engagement in "any business enterprise" brought nearly 100 enthusiastic supporters to the Wisconsin Capitol Wednesday.

Among prominent Wisconsin supporters of the resolution was Conrad Kohler of Kohler, executive of various Kohler Co. enterprises. He termed the income tax a capitalistic system. Only one person spoke in favor of retaining the 48-year-old constitutional amendment which empowers the federal government to collect its share of the individual's wages.

Chief supporter of the resolution was Willis Stone of Los Angeles, chairman of the National Committee for Economic Freedom. He and his wife, Julianne, 31, were awakened by smoke in a second floor bedroom.

Unable to go down a stairway because of intense smoke and heat, Koch climbed out a second story window and onto a roof of the Assembly Taxation Committee and the Senate Labor, Tax-Koch then tried to enter a front door but, even with his face covered with a coat, was driven back.

A passerby put in an alarm and firemen arrived as Koch was trying to find some way to get back into the house. The firemen rushed through the front door and raised a ladder into a second story window and carried out the children of Mrs. Koch. The children resided in the house.

Sylvia, 11; Ralph, 8; James, 6; Ellen, 5; Robert 4, and Donna 2. The mother and all the children except Ralph, were hospitalized and treated for smoke inhalation.

Japanese Visit Iko About Possible Trip

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—A delegation of Japanese nationals visited former President Dwight D. Eisenhower Wednesday, presumably in the interest of encouraging him to pay a visit to their country.

A projected trip to Japan last summer when Eisenhower was President had to be called off for security reasons because of anti-American riots in that country.

An Eisenhower aide said there would be no statement from him concerning discussions with the Japanese group.

State Pacifist Given Sentence

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—William Henry, 28, of Lodi, Wis., was given a one-year suspended sentence Wednesday on a charge of interfering with the launching of a polaris missile submarine.

Henry, who is serving a year at a federal correctional institution on a similar charge, also was placed on probation for two years, effective on his release from the institution at Danbury, Conn.

He was one of eight pacifists accused of trying to block the launching of the nuclear-powered submarine, Ethan Allen, at Groton Nov. 22.

Fidel Stages TV Marathon

1,000 Captives Sit on Bleachers To Hear Lecture

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Fidel Castro today staged a marathon harangue before nearly 1,000 captured rebel invaders in a dramatic Cuban television show interrupted once by an apparently accidental burst of gunfire.

The Cuban prime minister appeared momentarily startled when a guard's weapon discharged.

Then, he raised his arms over his head, urged the large Havana Sports Palace crowd to remain calm and said: "Don't anybody move. Everyone put their weapons where they belong."

Minutes after the unexpected interruption, Castro continued his long political and economic lecture to a captive audience seated in bleachers and guarded by soldiers armed with automatic rifles.

"You all thought you were going to be assassinated, didn't you?" Castro asked.

"Yes," the prisoners roared back.

"Instead," he said, "you have been treated politely." Most nodded agreement. Last Sunday Castro had strongly indicated the prisoners might face the firing squad.

After Castro spoke of the danger of American aggression against Cuba, several of the prisoners excitedly grabbed microphones and pledged to fight off any attack. The rest of the prisoners roared their approval.

At one point Castro was asked by one of the prisoners if his government was "completely Communist." He shouted back: "The Cuban people have a right to a Communist government if they want one. Ours is a Socialist government."

Castro's public appearance, only the second since the April 17 invasion, climaxed a five-day parade of captives before Havana's TV cameras.

Each prisoner stood and gave his name and home town. The television audience was asked to search the sea of faces and telephone in if they recognized any of the prisoners as "criminals of the dictatorship."

The Faculty Salary Argument

After some years of observation of the habits of governmental officials at budget time, we have no doubt that when the heads of the state colleges and universities asked for a generous 22 per cent raise in the salary levels of their faculties they were leaving room for the inevitable disposition of the legislature to reduce the figure.

On the basis of the habits of legislators over many years, moreover, we have a strong hunch that when the legislative finance committee the other day voted a 10 per cent faculty salary raise, the members privately expected that the figure would be boosted when the state budget reaches the floor a little later.

Thus when the final budget statute provides something like 14 per cent, both parties will have some ground for self-congratulation. The educational administrators will have shown their staffs that they have done battle for their interests. The legislators will have conveyed the message to their tax-conscious constituents that they can stand up against the demands of the payrollers.

But what of the merits of this perennial argument about the level of pay of our higher education institution teachers? We have several general observations.

First, it is transparent that the legislature does not have or does not provide the equipment with which to audit these and other claims. Legislative reactions tend to be concerned entirely with the exigencies of the moment — the degree of political pressure felt or threatened, the eloquence of the witnesses who make the budget speeches, the happenstance condition of the state treasury, and the personal economic experience of the politicians who happen to land seats on the finance committee. A farmer living on the thin soil of upper Wisconsin reacts somewhat differently to a 22 per cent pay increase demand from a $14,000 a year professor than does a prosperous lawyer from the city.

Decisions thus are based upon guessing, rather than considered judgment, political considerations rather than documented need.

Yet there are weaknesses on the other side of the argument. The university appears ever ready to cry doom at these budget sessions. Each odd-numbered year we hear the cries about a "second rate" university, and in the year following we get the boasts about the university's proud rank in the world of higher education as measured by numbers of graduate students, prize-winners, graduate degrees and other criteria. These are the things that make skeptics of some who might be friends.

We are provided with sometimes incomplete data upon which to make a fair judgment. The image of the university's fear and distress is the teaching teacher who may desert his station to take a better paying job elsewhere. But there are hundreds of men on the staff who never face a class. The university's non-teaching services have proliferated, and it is a commonplace that its salary schedule in these classifications is envied by the other administrative services within the state government. In measuring the emoluments of university staff, moreover, there is rarely any weight given to some of the boons that other public servants do not enjoy — the shorter work year, the longer work term holidays, the leaves, writing and lecture earning opportunities, and others.

There is too much uncritical repetition, it seems to us, of the turnover rate of faculty in relation to the salary problem. Teacher turnover at a college or university is inherent. Indeed, it is a necessary part of the system. While Wisconsin men go to Michigan, Iowa men are coming to Wisconsin, as during the whole history of higher education.

We have no reliable basis upon which to judge the merits of these repetitive faculty salary rows at Madison. What is perhaps more important, it is evident that the legislature lacks such a foundation for reliable judgment also.

Where Are the Defenders of Gen. Walker?

Gen. Edwin Walker, commander of the 24th Infantry Division in Germany, has been relieved of his command pending a "complete and impartial" investigation of charges that he has bombarded his troops with ultra-right wing propaganda. The charge was made in a private service-man's newspaper, the Overseas Weekly. According to this paper, Gen. Walker accused Eleanor Roosevelt, Dean Acheson and Harry Truman "definitely pink."

We do not know exactly how far in forcing conservative ideas upon soldiers Gen. Walker is alleged to have gone. Nor do we know under the circumstances, exactly what the Army ought to do about it.

But we are interested to hear what ought to be a violent reaction from the so-called liberals of the country. They are the ones who raised the roof several years ago about a congressional investigation into alleged Red activities at Fort Monmouth. They are the ones who insisted that the "Who promoted Peress?" query was irrelevant. They have moaned periodically that federal employees could not be effective in their positions under the harassment into their private activities and their opinions. They are the liberals who have insisted that a man's job, in no matter how sensitive a category, should not in any way depend upon his political affiliations or personal views.

Have any of these liberals, so anxious to leap to courageous defense of those accused of having ultra-left wing tendencies, spoken up for Gen. Walker's right of freedom of opinion? We are still waiting for even one small, brave voice.

The Farmer and Daylight Saving

Farmers may grumble about changing their clocks to "fast time" at midnight Saturday, but will comply with wishes of their city cousins and the daylight saving time law.

To everyone, moving the clock ahead means loss of an hour of sleep — an hour no one will regain until fall when clocks are turned back again.

Daylight saving time for the farmer will mean, according to the clock, rousing bossy an hour earlier Sunday for milking and an hour longer wait during haying and threshing for the dew to dry on the fields. Farmers will find themselves working later in the day when most city folks will be able to enjoy the extra hour of daylight.

Farmers generally will grumble but

From a British Point of View

Author John Masters, formerly a British subject but now an American, was for many years an officer in the British army in India. His comments on the present Indian Army and threats to it from political differences within the country in The Saturday Evening Post reflect his British background; they also point up some hard facts that Indian leaders have not yet faced.

India's greatest problem, says Masters, is its failure to recognize that "India's only real enemies are Communist subversion in general and Red Chinese aggression in particular." Prime Minister Nehru made a big mistake in conceding that perhaps the Red Chinese had a right to Tibet: now they threaten India's borders. And, while Nehru expects the Indian army to repel such an invasion, his regime, socialistic and therefore centralized in concept, has taken away much of the tradition, resolve and security Masters feels are important to the fighting worth of an army.

There are minor conflicts, too, which might become important. The varied peoples of India resent in some measure the efforts to take away their traditions of locality. There is a lack of quality military training among all but the upper echelon of army officers. There is a growing conflict between army officials and those of the government. There is an anti-Western attitude "most noticeable since Mr. Menon's increasing and obvious ascendancy over the Prime Minister."

Of course the years of colonial rule contributed to many of the attitudes in India today. We may expect every newly independent nation to retain for some time suspicion and even hatred of the former colonial power and its allies. Nehru has increasingly seemed to come to realize that true neutralism is impossible in today's world. But, says Masters, "the wine of independence still fizzes too headily in Indian minds for them to admit yet that if the peace-loving nations do not hang together, we shall certainly hang separately." India, like other neutral nations, needs time to come around. But is there such a thing in 1961?

Sir George Dunbar, writing India and the Passing of Empire in 1952 decried the vicious struggle between India and Pakistan "while, in world politics, India and Pakistan must stand together in face of the hideous rising menace of Communism." Some one of these days, Menon will have to be replaced or India's "neutrality" will really be in danger of demise.

Mayor Mitchell's Move Toward City-County Health Unit Approved

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I was pleased to read Mayor Mitchell's recommendation for the appointment of a council committee to confer with county government leaders to consider the establishment of a City-County Health Department.

When I moved to this community 1½ years ago, I was surprised to find both the county and city health unit staffs were so small. I suppose one reason for failure to provide for an adequate number is that we have no yardstick to measure the money and heartbreak saved by the preventive health measures and prompt referrals for corrective medical care that are generally products of a functioning health department.

At least the school child in Appleton is luckier than his counterpart in the county or those in different age brackets. As a public health nurse with experience in both health departments and schools, I feel Appleton has a good school health program which has contributed much to the general level of good health in the city. But here, too, the staff of nurses is smaller than the national recommendation. (American School Health Association)

Although Appleton has done much to improve community hygiene and health protection, much energy has been expended in piecemeal efforts to attain these objectives. A unified health department, staffed with people trained to deal with these problems, could accomplish such improvements far more effectively.

This area has had a population increase of about 25 per cent between the last census periods and continues to grow. Now is the time to prepare for the health problems that accompany larger populations. Waiting for an epidemic of infectious hepatitis or poliomyelitis (as a consequence of inadequate sewage control) before taking action is not my idea of economy. And it is well to remember that even though Appleton has sewage treatment supervision and plans for increasing sewage treatment capacity, an epidemic in the county is not going to confine itself to the county. Germs do not recognize city limits.

Residents of the city and county may not be aware that this area falls far short of meeting minimum standards recommended by the United States Public Health Service in numbers of personnel needed to protect their health. Generally, one sanitarian per 17,000 people is considered necessary. The county, has none. The city, at present, has one full-time and one part-time sanitarian and provision for one more to work full-time. One city nurse and two county nurses are doing the work which should be allocated to ten nurses.

So I repeat, I am grateful to Mayor Mitchell for having the vision to realize this need now, while the city and county are still in a position to plan and build a sound health program without the pressure of health problems which need immediate solution at too high a cost. The formation of a City-County Health Department would make possible the employment of a properly trained full-time health officer and the auxiliary personnel needed to give us the health protection we should have.

Oh Them Basses

From The Montgomery Advertiser

A young performer recently gave a solo recital on the tuba at Carnegie Hall. The critics reacted kindly enough, but there's only so much that a tuba can do. It would seem that such a concert would be about as exciting as a solo on the triangle or a recital on castanets.

Little Chute Exemption Is Called 'Amazing'

From The Capital Times, Madison

One of the most amazing incidents in this legislative session, which has had more than its share of them, occurred last week when the Assembly approved an exception to the 1959 law that requires all territory to be in a high school district.

As a personal favor to Assemblyman Marvin Babbitt (R-Seymour) the Assembly exempted the village of Little Chute from the law. Babbitt won re-election in 1960 by only 163 votes out of 20,000 cast. A Capital Times reporter learned that the Assembly exempted Little Chute in or-

Need Better Plan for Reviewing Budgets

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The reductions in Gov. Nelson's budget ostensibly wrought by the Republican-controlled legislative finance committee after two months of admittedly arduous review work are likely to be more nominal than real.

According to all appearances, the committee has cut out $12,000,000 or more from the $503,000,000 executive budget submitted by the governor, who took pains to describe it as a considerably tighter budget than he would have offered with a treasury in better condition or a more friendly legislature in sight.

That may sound pretty good to the sensitive taxpayer. The question is whether it can be made to stick when the budget bill gets on the floor of the legislature. There is plenty of room for doubt.

Republicans who are not members of the budget-writing committee already are predicting that there will be an amendment enacted restoring the $5,000,000 cut from the building construction fund. The history of the higher education lobby, as well as the lack of agreement by the Republicans on the committee, suggest that it will be hard to hold the line on the 10 per cent faculty increase recommended by the committee to replace the 20 per cent suggested by Nelson and the 22 per cent demanded by the schools.

If the committee is rebuffed on those major items, the executive budget total will be restored to virtually the original Nelson figure. The other adjustments were too minor, whatever their merits, to have any significant impact in figuring the tax liability increases in this legislative year.

THE DIFFICULTIES

A fair estimate would be that no finance committee of a Wisconsin legislature in modern times put in as much hard work as did this one this year, captained by Sen. Draheim of Neenah and Assemblyman Bidwell of Portage.

Yet a fair account also must note that it was not an especially effective committee. It labored manfully, in obvious recognition of the fact that the finance and tax issue is the dominant one of capitol politics this year. But the job of appraising a spending program bigger than ever before presented to it was obviously too much for it. Too many of the members were new to the subject to contribute very usefully. Moreover, the lack of staff and advisors is becoming ever more painfully obvious. Soon the committee will be required to make some provision for independent counsel, if the legislative budget review is to be saved from utter degeneration.

The committee worked best on minor items, issues that were tangible and susceptible to understanding by a man of ordinary experience. The price of a desk or chair, the percentage of a wage boost, a vacancy in a capitol police job, these and other minor items were grasped eagerly by men trying to show their interest in economical government.

"WE KNOW"

The default was in the big items. A $152,000,000 program for the state department of public instruction was put over in a few moments, while the issue of a couple of extra clerks in a bureaucratic corner earned an hour of argument.

Basically such weaknesses and foibles are inherent in the system. There was a time, presumably, when 14 men could sit around a table and get a reasonably good grasp of the services and functions involved in the total outlay of state executive budget funds.

In the late 1930's, the total of such spending was under $73,000,000. The machinery for auditing was precisely the same as it is today, when these men must review more than $500,000,000 worth of services. If there is any difference in the times, it is in favor of the earlier committees, made up of men who were not so involved in other legislative affairs which also have grown more complex in the succeeding quarter century.

Need Home For 3,000 Goldfish

From The Wall Street Journal

The Western Electric Company lists among its liquid assets the world's largest goldfish bowl, a 462-foot tank that 3,000 goldfish call home.

The tank is a relic of the Great Depression, a concrete-lined hole originally intended as the site of a building that failed to get off the ground when the national economy floundered three decades ago. The company converted the foundation to a cistern and stocked it with goldfish.

But now Western Electric wants to spin off the fish, drain the tank, and erect an office building on the old foundation. Disposing of the goldfish is a problem, however, because they have grown to over 15 inches in length and now resemble a school of embarrassed mackerel.

Still, the company is undisturbed. Said a spokesman: "Having made pets of the fish for so many years we feel an obligation to find them new homes where they can continue their happy, carefree existence. We'd like to hear from any governmental agency that would be interested in taking them between now and the end of the year."

Why, of course. Have the Government assume responsibility for the creatures and they will be assured a "happy, carefree existence."

And what more befits a fish than getting in the swim?

The company is composed of men over 45 years of age. A large proportion of them have held commissions ranking from ensign upwards.

The company now numbers 55 men enrolled and will continue to enlist until the company is full. They will meet regularly for drill and hold themselves in

In actual tests at a leading agricultural college, "Nearly Wild" has actually produced 40 times more blossoms in a single season than the average of 68 of the nation's top roses combined! And it blooms, blooms, blooms for fully 5 to 6 months... from early June right up until frost... producing as many as 50 fresh blossoms each day, week after week, month after month once it's well-established. Each dainty 3" single rose resembles a lovely, extra-petaled dogwood blossom, has all the native beauty of the wild, all the perfection of expert cultivation. Just one plant and your yard will glow with hundreds upon hundreds of the most beloved and enchanting flowers known to man... roses! "Nearly Wild" bursts into ravishing masses of color the first season you plant it, and unlike most other roses, will flower more and more profusely each passing year. Indeed, there are so many blossoms afoot on each plant, you can gather an armload and leave just as many roses still on the bush!

A Sub-Zero Hybrid Rose Triumph . . . Resists Heat, Drought, Cold and Disease!
So easy to care for, too, and so amazingly hardy and resistant to disease, including Blackspot! Developed by famous hybridizer Dr. Walter D. Brownell, "Nearly Wild" is his fabulous Sub-Zero rose creation that defies freezing temperatures down to 35° below zero, will even thrive in the Arctic Circle... and is just as resistant to heat as it is to intense cold. "Nearly Wild" sparkles through blazing summer heat when most other roses droop and hang limp. Through searing sun, its fiery reddish-pink blossoms stay fresh and perky!

Editors Get Warnings About Perilous Times

Administration Tells Nation's Press That Outlook for U. S. Appears Serious

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — American newspaper editors were prepared this week for what President Kennedy warned about in his State of the Union message last January: The news will be worse before it is better.

For two days in the big auditorium of the State Department, Kennedy and some of his top men briefed editors from all over the country on the problems the United States faces abroad in dealing with communism.

Under the rules laid down nothing they said can be directly attributed to any of them. But if what they said could be boiled down to one sentence this would be it: This country is in for some tough days. There may be wins; but there may also be losses.

Khrushchev's Serious

The administration is taking seriously Premier Khrushchev's warning—he spoke in January before Kennedy's State of the Union message referred to perilous days ahead—to expect a series of revolutions like the one in Cuba.

At that time Khrushchev said there are three kinds of war:

1. The thermonuclear kind, which the world has escaped so far and which Khrushchev said he wants to avoid.
2. The brush-fire kind—like the Indochina fighting of 1953-54 and the British-French invasion of Suez in 1956. The Soviet leader said he wants to avoid this kind, too. It could lead to thermonuclear war.
3. The third class war or national war of liberation, such as Fidel Castro fought in Cuba and the one being waged now by the Algerians against the French. Khrushchev said world communism fully supports this kind.

Country Tough

The administration considers it tough enough to protect a country from external attack but protecting it from the internal, or revolutionary assault, is a truly formidable task.

But the administration—as if trying to cope with Castro and save Laos and South Viet Nam from a Communist take-over were not enough—may get hit by Khrushchev with a new crisis over Berlin in a few months.

And in the background, but containing perhaps even more explosive danger, is Red China. Right now it's trying to get on its feet. In a few years, if it develops the atomic bomb, it may start moving.

One high official talked of the Red Chinese this way:

Chinese Expanding

1. The Chinese always have been expansionist. So their claim to Tibet, for instance, is nothing new.
2. But they lack some very important natural resources, like oil and are horribly short of land. When they feel strong enough they can turn in three directions:

1. Tell the Russians to move over in Asia to make room for them.
2. Follow a more peaceful path and seek food and other things by trade.
3. Or just try to take what they want—such as natural resources and land—by moving into Southeast Asia.

What this official didn't allow for is the possibility that in a few years—by the technique of the third class kind of war mentioned by Khrushchev — communism may have gobbled up much of Southeast Asia before China has the bomb at all.

No Decline Seen

If you think all this sounds gloomy, the editors were told the administration does not accept the idea that the decline of the West is inevitable.

But an official said: It's possible that in five years the United States will have lost much of its influence in the world.

This kind of talk a dozen years ago—when this country had a monopoly on the hydrogen bomb and before communism began its big drive under Khrushchev — would have been unthinkable by a government official.

It's a good indication of how powerful communism has become and with what misgivings the American government views it.

Wisconsin Delegation Splits Vote on Bill To Aid Latin America

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Members of the Wisconsin house delegation were evenly divided in their vote on an appropriations bill allocating $300 million for the Latin American development fund and $100 million for Chilean earthquake relief. The bill was passed 331 to 31.

Voting for the measure were Reps. Robert W. Kastenmeier, Watertown; Clement J. Zablocki, Milwaukee; Henry S. Reuss, Milwaukee; and Lester R. Johnson, Black River Falls, all Democrats, and John W. Byrnes, Green Bay Republican.

Voting against it were Reps. Henry C. Schadeberg, Burlington; Vernon W. Thomson, Richland Center; William K. Van Pelt, Fond du Lac; Alvin E. O'Konski, Mercer, and Melvin R. Laird, Marshfield, all Republicans.

Wisconsin Will Get Own 'Marshall Dillon'

MADISON — The candidacy of James Dillon, Green Bay salesman and Democratic party figure, for appointment as United States marshal for the eastern federal court of Wisconsin has been cleared by Democratic state party figures. It has been learned here.

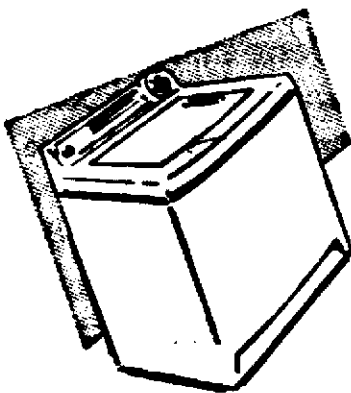

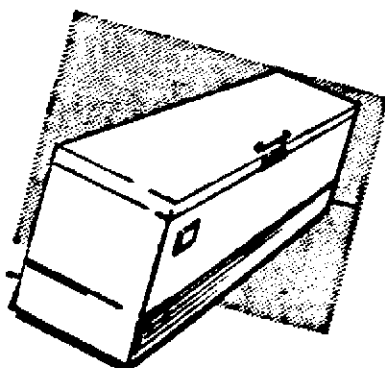

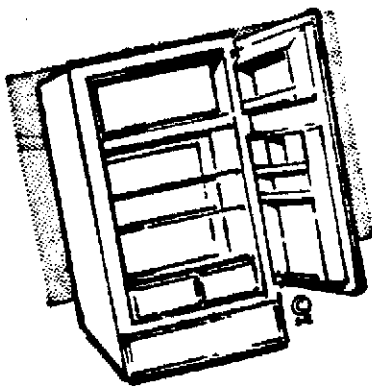

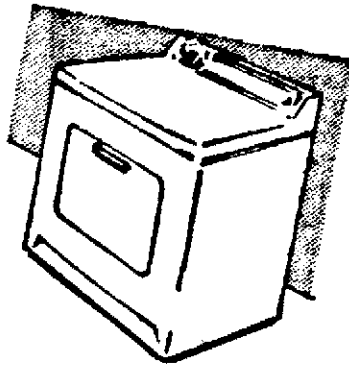

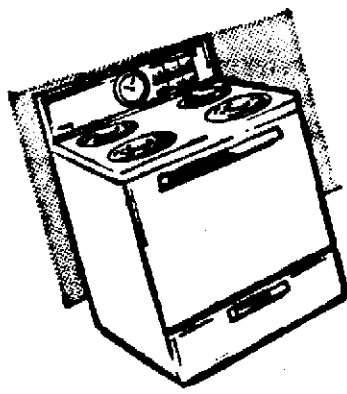

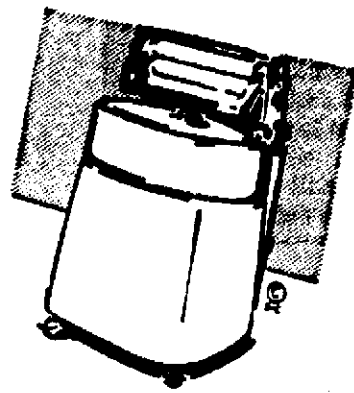

Dillon's appointment is expected to be announced from Washington soon. The position pays about $10,000 a year and is outside the civil service rules.

Charlie Examines JFK's Words, Objects to Just One — 'Ameriker'

BY CHARLES HOUSE
POTPOURRI — Someone has been getting to President Kennedy these days and with some sound advice. From his broadcasted press conferences we note that he no longer pronounces Cuba as "Cuber" as do most persons with the Boston accent. Now, if someone will urge him to adjust his pronunciation of "The United States of Ameriker" to the one more acceptable to Midwestern ears, we'll be a little happier.

I have no objections if he continues to speak of the "balance of powah," or of "hahd times" or of "Korear," or of the "Democratic potty" or the "yeahs ahead." He may say "eyether" or "either" and I will care not a jot. He may discourse on "Afriker" and on "propagander" and he may, if he wants to, speak of the "Southern arear," and I will still like it—to speak of "hungah" and "lahst summah," and of "faw-thahly advice."

And I applaud him because he is one of the few persons who have bothered to learn that Nikita Khrushchev's name is properly pronounced "Khrushchhoff." But whoever it was who more dignified when it is not being pronounced by a "Harvard trained Bostonian."

No New Ones

I have understood that there are really no new jokes, and that the ones which move among us today are based upon other ones of long ago, but I did not know how old they really are. Now I have proof.

Recently my 14-year-old son told me a joke which I knew to be at least 276 years old. That joke came to him from a friend of his, Jack Riopelle, a high school student.

In general terms, the joke told of two men who were arguing, on a misty early morning, about whether or not the glimmer of light they saw in the distance was the sun or the moon. To settle the argument they called upon a passerby who said, "How should I know?"

I've never been in this part of the country before!" It happened that a week before that joke passed to my son I had written an article on a jester who belonged in the court of Peter the Great, of Russia. I had carefully researched his life and some of the amusing stories credited to his ingenious sense of humor. The one relayed to me from Jack Riopelle was one of the jokes made by the jester whose name was Balakireff. Despite the long years between the time of Balakireff and today, that joke came down to us almost unchanged except that Jack's was in an American background.

1875 Retelling, Too

To cinch at least a portion of the story's age and to dodge the possibility that the joke was a new one created by a modern biographer and ascribed to Balakireff, I must report that I read it in a book titled "Harvest-Fields of Literature" by Dr. C. C. Bombaugh. It was printed in 1875. So if Dr. Bombaugh improperly gave the joke to Balakireff, that joke is still a pretty old one — a minimum of 86 years. And that's a joke which may well be classified as "old."

Youth Gets Probation, For Stealing Auto Accessories in Seymour

William J. Dobrinska, 18, 915 S. Weimar St., who admitted he stole two automobile fender skirts, was placed on probation for two years to the State Department of Public Welfare in Municipal Court Tuesday. Sentence was withheld.

Dobrinska took the fender skirts from Mielke Motors, Seymour, Jan. 1. The accessories were valued at $19. He was arrested by Seymour police.

Dobrinska once before was in Juvenile Court on a theft charge. He has previous convictions of driving too fast for conditions, having an illegal muffler on his car, property damage, accident and drunkenness.

Shiocton Man Back in Court

6 Months Tacked on To Confinement of Harold Zimmerman

A Shiocton man who denied four theft charges in Municipal Court last Dec. 27, then ran down the courthouse steps to a day of freedom, was back in court today.

Harold Zimmerman, 44, route 2, Shiocton, bolted out of the hands of an Outagamie County jailer, but was caught a day later. Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieg sent Zimmerman to Wisconsin State Reformatory at Green Bay for one to two years. Zimmerman was brought from the reformatory to court Tuesday to change his plea on the theft charges.

Zimmerman admitted theft of two hubcaps from Sherry Motors, 325 W. Washington St., five gallons of gasoline from Daniel Daniels, 729 E. Franklin St., an automobile license plate, and a $20 wedding ring from Janice Burmeister, 731 E. Hancock St. The thefts occurred between Nov. 4 and Nov. 11, 1960. He was arrested by Appleton police.

He was sentenced to an additional six months confinement today, the sentence to run concurrent with his reformatory sentence if Zimmerman makes restitution for the wedding ring.

prove that the new jokes are really very old ones?

We who labor in the world of newspaperdom must frequently employ the shortest possible terms to tell a story simply and quickly.

Most newsmen, however practiced and skillful they may be in the arts of brevity, would be willing to admit that Talleyrand, the French politician was more so.

A number of stories concerning this cryptic gentleman are told, but one of the best concerns two messages to a lady he knew well.

When she was married, Talleyrand sent her this brief message: "Ah, Madame!"

A few months after her marriage, her new husband died, and Talleyrand sent this: "Oh, Madame!"

On another occasion, a hopeful office seeker wrote to Talleyrand to imply that he was eagerly awaiting word that he was appointed to a new post which he knew Talleyrand thought him too evil a man to hold.

So Soon, Already?

The office seeker wrote that he was suffering the tortures of hell ("Je sens les tourmens de l'enfer").

Talleyrand's letter in return contained only one word: "Already?"

Oppose Plan For Bigger Loans to Vets

Proposal Would Shift Funds From State Liquor Taxes

MADISON (AP)—A proposal to make bigger home loans available to state veterans by shifting $11.8 million in liquor taxes from the general fund stirred opposition in the Legislature's Joint Finance Committee Wednesday.

"We're about $60 million short in the biennium now," Assemblyman Ben Riehle, D-Athens, told a supporter of the proposal. "How do you think we're going to replace this extra money?"

The proposal was included in 14 bills affecting veterans' housing heard by the committee.

Increase Loans

The State Department of Veterans' Affairs hoped that the $11.8 million shift to the Veterans' housing pool would enable it to increase maximum home loans from $3,500 to $4,000. The measure also would raise the top value on homes eligible for the loans from $15,000 to $17,500 and permit garage construction to be included under the program.

Morton Gazerwitz of Oshkosh, vice chairman of the State Board of Veterans' Affairs, called boosting the value on homes eligible for loans to $17,500 a "realistic" change in view of increased building costs.

"And since garages no longer can be considered luxuries they should be placed under the program too," he said.

Gazerwitz said the requested transfer of liquor funds was "morally justified." He said it would put the money back to the use the 1947 Legislature intended. Liquor funds were diverted in 1951 to provide local property tax relief and enrich the general fund.

Sen. Lynn Stalbaum, D-Racine, speaking in support of four veterans' measures that list him as co-author, assailed the department for maintaining a loan fund reserve of $3 million "when there's a need to place more out on loans."

He asked favorable committee action on a measure that would transfer the postwar rehabilitation fund to the Veterans' Housing Trust Fund. The proposal would limit the department's reserve to about $1.1 million and make more than $1.8 million available for loans, the senator said.

Cubans Tell Of Invasion

was able to land without difficulty the first day. It was four or five hours before the invaders met any material opposition," they related.

"Most of the opposition came the next day (April 18)—wave after wave of troops: Stalin tanks and a large number of cannon.

"We had landed five tanks, but the turrets of two were out of commission.

"Our weakness was especially in lacking airplanes that could match the performance of the Sea Furies and jets that bombed and machinegunned our men. Next time, we will have to have aviation that can compete.

"One ship of ours only was sunk — the 2,500-ton Rio Escondido, whose ammunition exploded when the craft was struck by a rocket. All the other ships got away. Not once did the Castro navy interfere with operations off Bahia Cochinos while we were landing and evacuating.

"We captured more than 200 Castro militiamen and troops — and had to leave them behind. Some we confined in a building on which was painted a cross. The men in there were killed by a Castro bomb. Some had hammer-and-sickle tattoos."

Helped Rebels Escape

The two Cubans said they were on the beach all day of the 19th, ferrying rebels to evacuation craft by outboard motor boat. They said they brought 51 to safety that way.

"Our men fought waist-deep in water," the younger man said.

"The badly wounded had to be left behind. An airplane was to evacuate them but it could not land under the attack of Castro's aviation.

Four Castro Planes Were Shot Down

"We did not have a chance to examine the bodies of Castro pilots killed. But their flying formations convinced us they had been instructed by foreigners."

The two rebel survivors estimated their brigade faced numerical odds of 100 to 1 by the time they withdrew.

They said that Castro grossly understated both his own and the invaders' casualties when he announced 80 or so of each side were killed. They refused to set a figure but said the death toll was much worse.

They ridiculed Castro's contention that the invasion force was wiped out.

Kennedy Asks Ethical Federal Standards

the need to restate basic principles in their application to contemporary facts."

"The ultimate answer to ethical problems in government is honest people in a good ethical environment," Kennedy said, but added:

"Nevertheless formal regulation is required — regulation which can lay down clear guidelines of policy, punish venality and double-dealing, and set a general ethical tone for the conduct of public business."

Leaders Set Examples

Ultimately, Kennedy said, high ethical standards can be maintained only if the leaders of government provide a personal example, and "perhaps the gravest responsibility of all rests upon the office of President."

"No President," he said, "can excuse or pardon the slightest deviation from irreproachable standards of behavior on the part of any member of the executive branch. For his firmness and determination is the ultimate source of public confidence in the government of the United States."

That was the stated reasoning behind Kennedy's announcement of his plan to set up a White House office of coordinator of ethical administration.

"Regulation of ethical conduct," Kennedy said, "must be coordinated in order to ensure that all employees are held to the same general standards of conduct."

Favors Changes In Law

At the same time, Kennedy proposed a broad overhaul of conflicts of interest laws. He also urged adoption of specific codes of conduct in every government agency relating to private contacts over pending business. Kennedy was understood to have a "no exception" rule in mind on such contacts, which would include members of Congress.

White House aides described the message as the most far-reaching document on ethics ever submitted to Congress by a president.

Kennedy said he will, by executive order, shortly blueprint those things which a government employee may not do if he wants to continue on the payroll.

Landis' Possibility

Kennedy did not indicate whom he intended to appoint to the ethics post. But, there was immediate speculation that the job might be offered to James M. Landis, former dean of the Harvard Law School.

Last December, Landis, 61, the special assistant to the President in discharging his responsibility of assuring the efficient execution of those laws that these agencies administer."

Lists Responsibilities

Kennedy said he would charge his ethics coordinator with these responsibilities:

Preparing for presidential proclamation general regulations as needed.

Developing methods of informing government personnel about ethical standards.

Conducting studies and accumulating experience leading to more effective regulation of ethical conduct, including the formulation of rules in areas not yet regulated.

Clearing and coordinating agency regulations to assure consistent executive policy.

Many Challenges

Kennedy expressed the view that "no web of statute or regulation" could hope to meet all possible challenges to a federal employee's integrity or his devotion to the public interest.

"The ultimate answer to ethical problems in government," Kennedy said, "is honest people business in a good ethical environment."

"We evacuated at least 150 to 200 by ship," they said. "A good number of our forces also fought their way into the Escambray Mountains."

the employee was directly involved while on the payroll. This, he said, was in place of present contradictory restrictions on what a former employee may do in representing clients before government agencies for two years after leaving federal service.

The proposed act would also clarify the existing laws relating to prosecution of "claims against the government" to include matters relating to government regulation as well as a property or money claim.

Uniform Penalties

Apply uniform penalties of $10,000 fine or one year imprisonment or both, for violations of the criminal provisions.

Establish special standards for "skilled individuals" brought into the government on a part-time or advisory basis so that they might continue their private business, "even business with the government, as long as there is no direct conflict between their private and public work."

Grant new flexibility to the use of disciplinary measures by agency heads in dealing with undesirable activity.

The law would not apply to either the judicial or legislative branches of the government, but would cover employees of the District of Columbia.

Kennedy said existing laws relating to the judiciary "are deemed adequate," and regulations for members of Congress and congressional employees "should be left to strictly congressional determination."

However, in relation to the proposed agency codes of conduct concerning private contacts, the President was understood to have a "no exception" rule in mind, which would include members of Congress.

Since the independent agencies report to Congress rather than the White House, the President asked Congress to require the agencies within the next 120 days to promulgate such codes, suggesting that Congress subsequently pass on these codes and so give them "the force of law," with appropriate penalties.

The codes, he said, should contain "an absolute prohibition against ex parte contact in all proceedings between private parties in which law or agency regulation requires that a decision be made solely on the record of a formal hearing."

The President proposed that every government department and agency maintain an advisory committee on ethical problems, working closely with the proposed White House coordinator.

"I realize," the message said, "that perhaps the gravest responsibility of all rests upon the office of President. No President can excuse or pardon the slightest deviation from irreproachable standards of behavior on the part of any member of the executive branch."

Pusey's Decision Objected To by Students at Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—an impassioned speech in Latin in behalf of the ancient tongue.

He was identified as Philip of Stone Jr., 21, of Oxford, Miss., last night to President Nathan M. Pusey, former Lawrence College professor, a decision to use English on Harvard diplomas, instead of the traditional Latin.

It was on the whole a good-humored demonstration, although some boos were heard outside Pusey's residence and some eggs were thrown. No one was hurt and they are not honoring our heritage, the Cambridge police blither, a age.

In New Haven (seat of Ivy League Yale University), Stone went on, "let the barbarians not rejoice. Let them not dance naked in the streets rejoicing that the place of Latin in the nation's oldest university and more about having a good old springtime ruckus."

Break up Crowd

Police broke up the crowd of about 400 when it moved out into Harvard Square.

The sudden demand for something to throw lifted the price of eggs to 25 cents each at a nearby restaurant which did a profitable appeared to be normal and there was every indication orbit was achieved.

The demonstration began mildly in Harvard yard where, in Pusey's words seemed to offer a confidence in the integrity and front of Widener Library, a student in a Roman toga delivered diplomas cling to Latin.

Other Shoot Delayed

A final test of the escape device before a man trusts his life to it had been planned for today at NASA's Wallops Island, Va., station, but the shoot had to be postponed indefinitely because of cloudy weather.

The space agency never has announced a definite date for the first American effort to achieve manned space flight but unofficial sources have pegged the trial for about May 2. The plan is to send an astronaut for a relatively short ride about 115 miles high and 290 miles south from Cape Canaveral.

The postponed Wallops Island shoot, employing the comparatively small Little Joe rocket, was planned to send the unmanned capsule about 8 1/2 miles high and bring it down a few miles off the Virginia eastern shore under the heaviest stresses an astronaut might encounter.

The space agency said clear weather was needed for photographic purposes and called off the test without a definite new date when the forecast indicated the clouds would persist for at least 24 hours.

base in California and at the Cape Canaveral base in Florida. Dunne and Bevis said an electrician's $3.50 an hour wage rate can produce a weekly pay check of $674.50 as overtime amounts into quadruple time.

In written testimony, Dunne and Bevis said spot checks for one week last September and one week last January showed plumbers, pipefitters and electricians at Vandenberg were better paid than the base's commanding general.

Makes Comparisons

They said plumbers and pipefitters drew wages of $420 and $733 a week, including overtime computed at up to four times the regular rate; electricians $413 to $670 a week, while Maj. Gen. David Wade, the commander, got pay and allowances totaling $365 a week.

They wrote that common laborers, including ditchdiggers, earned up to $287 during the weeks checked — more than the pay and allowances of astronauts. The laborers' foreman, they said, made $434 — more than the secretary of the air force.

They said 14 iron workers on the payroll averaged $520 weekly each, more than the $480 paid Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

There was no immediate comment from unions involved in the testimony. C. J. Haggerty, president of the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department, said he was on call as a witness and was ready to answer all questions.

Convict Back After Extended Egg Hunt

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP)—A Sutter County jail inmate who escaped three weeks ago when he was sent out to hide eggs for a community Easter egg hunt is back in his cell today.

Elbert Aubrey Tyler, 46, was arrested in Tulare, where he told deputies that while he was hiding the eggs he got to thinking about his own children in Modesto.

"I just had to go see them," he said.

Thieves Might Have Gotten Jolted Here

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Police recovered a stolen car Wednesday that had been stripped of its accessories. But the thieves carefully left undisturbed the contents of the glove compartment — two live hand grenades. There was no immediate explanation of the grenades.

Plamann School Needs $45,000

Citizens Group Starts First Drive for New Building

Outagamie Citizens for Retarded Children, which for nearly two years has been taking donations for the proposed Robert Plamann School for retarded children, will begin next week its first full-fledged formal drive for the school. The money will be used to build the school on a six-acre tract, donated by the Plamann family, in the Apple Creek area north of Appleton. The school will be turned over to the county, which with state aid will conduct classes for children of 25 to 50 intelligence quotients.

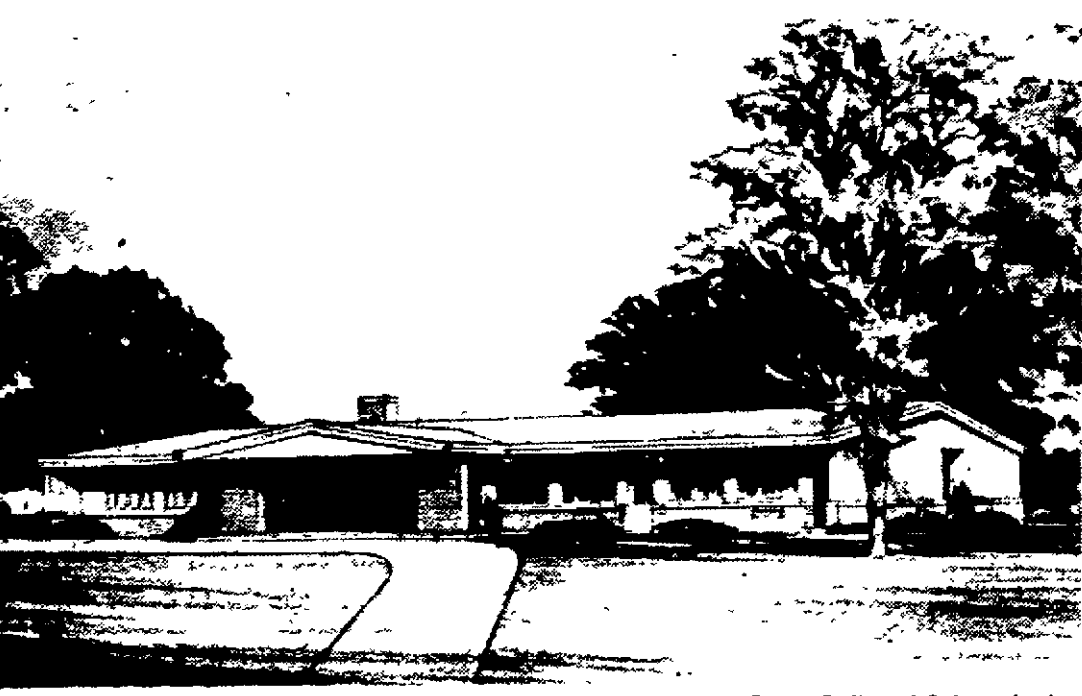

State Students Plan Weekend Retreat Here

Meetings Scheduled At Congregational Church, Lawrence

About 75 students from Wisconsin colleges and universities will be in Appleton Friday, Saturday and Sunday for the United Christian Campus Fellowship spring retreat. The members of United Church of Christ (Congregational), Presbyterian and Evangelical United Brethren student organizations will have meetings at First Congregational Church and Lawrence College. Making local arrangements are the Rev. Richard Schroeder, associate pastor of the host church, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cunningham, lay advisers of the Lawrence College UCCF; Mrs. Wheeler Welson, hostess, and Mrs. E. E. Dickey, hospitality chairman. Ann Doernlund, Lawrence Student from Des Plaines, Ill., is president and Marilyn Mundy, Lawrence student from Milwaukee, is vice-president of the state organization. Students from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, will present the play, "Christ in the Concrete City," for the public at 8:15 p.m. Saturday in First Congregational Church sanctuary. Dr. Anderson Clark, of First Presbyterian Church, Beloit, will address the students at 8:15 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Saturday. Other speakers are Hartley Helmich, St. Louis, national UCCF director; the Rev. Kenneth Friou, UCCF director at the Madison UW campus, who also will preach at First Congregational Church's 9:30 a.m. Sunday Service, and Donald Buell, UCCF director at the UW Milwaukee campus. "Responsibility of College Students" is the retreat theme.

Open House at OTC Attracts 49 Visitors

KAUKAUNA — The open house at Outagamie County Teachers' College Wednesday attracted 49 potential students representing residents from throughout the Fox Cities and many rural areas. The College held open house in an effort to ascertain the number interested in enrolling for fall term. Some indicated they were interested in receiving two years of college credit before taking studies elsewhere. Others were not definite on future plans.

Robert Plamann School for retarded children, to be built near Plamann Park north of Appleton, will look like this architect's sketch. The school will accommodate about 30 children at a time, in half-day sessions. Final plans were made after meetings with county and state specialists in training retarded children. Outagamie Citizens for Retarded Children will begin next week a drive to collect the $45,000 needed so that the school can be built this year.

Early Warnings Start of Delinquency in Child Compared to Cancer Danger Signs

NEENAH — You can compare juvenile delinquency with cancer, Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane told Wilson School PTA members Wednesday night. You have early warning signs for cancer, he said, and it is the same with juvenile delinquency. These early signs may not mean anything, he added, but the "sooner you catch the danger signals, the easier it is to cure."

Judge Cane was part of a panel on juvenile delinquency that included the Rev. John Hanchett, chairman of the Winnebago County Juvenile Detention Study Committee; Capt. Lawrence Malouf, Neenah Police Department, and Norman Whitford, Winnebago County Welfare Department director. William Dunwiddie, Wilson PTA president, was moderator. "What is the seriousness of the juvenile delinquency problem?" Dunwiddie asked.

1,642 Arrests
The Rev. Hanchett said that between July 1, 1958, and June 30, 1960, the six law enforcement agencies in the county made 1,643 apprehensions of juveniles. "This does not include those who got away," he said. "Of those apprehended, 362 were

200 Paper Executives to Tour New Stowe-Woodward Plant on Tuesday

Neenah Plant Expansion Marked By Luncheon at Butte des Morts

NEENAH — Stowe-Woodward, Inc., will officially open its new Neenah plant Tuesday when over 200 major paper industry executives tour the facilities.

D. H. Stapleton, Boston, Mass., Stowe-Woodward president, will be on hand for the ceremony. After the tour, the executives will be entertained at a buffet luncheon at Butte des Morts Golf Club. The new plant began operations late last year. Stowe-Woodward, manufacturer of rubber rolls for the paper, textile tanning and other industries, has maintained manufacturing facilities in Neenah since 1954.

The plant which marks the third major expansion by the rubber firm, incorporates the latest techniques and design for the processing of rubber covered rolls. It is also the third Stowe-Woodward plant to offer suction press roll covering service to its customers. Covering 32,300 square feet, the interior of the new plant was specifically designed to meet the production flow and work area requirements inherent in the rubber roll manufacturing industry. The installation of the world's largest two wheel grinder, capable of handling rolls 63 inches in diameter and 380 inches in face length, provides the flexibility nec-

Honor Groups Tap Members

Mace, Mortar Board Have Ceremonies at Lawrence College

Seven Lawrence College junior women, five junior men and Douglas M. Knight, college president, were tapped for membership in the honor societies Mortar Board and Mace at this morning's convocation in Memorial Chapel. Knight was elected by the present chapter for honorary membership in Mace, campus honor society for senior men. The group celebrates its 50th anniversary today. It was founded at Lawrence in 1911.

Other electees to Mace included Dan Brink, Round Lake, Ill.; Richard Kauffman, Naperville, Ill.; Walter Krueger, Wilmette, Ill.; Donald Manson, Madison, and Robert Waterman, Fort Atkinson.

Board President
Selected as president of the new Mortar Board chapter, national women's honorary society recognizing scholarship, leadership and service, was Anne Pelizzoni, of Tulsa, Okla. She returned to the campus from a semester in residence at the Argonne National Laboratory in Illinois to take part in the tapping ceremonies.

Other new Mortar Boards are: Barbara Stroud, St. Louis, Mo., vice-president and first projects chairman; Enid Skripka, Milwaukee, second projects chairman; Sarah Meyer, Oshkosh, secretary and editor; Janet Anson, Gillett, treasurer; Marcia Rivenburg, Geneseo, Ill., social chairman, and Mary Hamilton, Milwaukee.

New members of Mortar Board and their parents shared in a luncheon with past and present members of the society at Colman Hall following the convocation. Miss Helen Proctor, honorary member, was the speaker. Mace will have its 50th anniversary dinner at Colman this evening, with remarks scheduled from Allan Berman, current president, and Dr. Knight. Membership is based upon sound scholarship, moral character, personal development and campus leadership and participation.

Lutheran Laymen Plan Seminar at Appleton Church

Faith Lutheran Church will be the scene of a Lutheran Laymen's League seminar at 7:30 p.m. today.

The Rev. Dr. Lawrence Acker, pastor emeritus of First Lutheran Church and interim pastor of Pacific Hills Lutheran Church, Omaha, Neb., will speak on "Church in the House."

He is pastoral adviser of the Lutheran Laymen's League and brought by William Coel, 1236 W. Frances St., Appleton. Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane set trial for June 6 and released Sorce without bond. Coel contends the offense occurred April 8 in the Town of Neenah.

2 Run-Away Youths Stay Ahead of Police

Two Kaukauna boys who ran away from home April 4 have an uncanny ability to stay one jump ahead of police.

It all started when a mother called Appleton police and reported that her boy had not come home the night before. He had run away once before, and she was worried. Police checked at the home of the boy's girl friend. He had been there, but left. When they checked the house again, the runaway had been there again but had taken off — with the girl friend's brother and the father's car.

Bulletin Put Out
The girl friend's brother, a juvenile, was to report to Kaukauna Police Chief Harold Engerson the next day.

Immediately an all points bulletin was put out. On April 6 one of the boys called home from Princeton, Mo., and wanted $26 "to come home." Appleton police then sent a teletype request to Princeton police, asking them to pick up the boys. Princeton police were given a description and the license number of the car the pair was driving.

Guidance Center Plans To Add Play Room

$9,500 Sought in Current Fund Drive Of Winnebago Clinic for Equipment

NEENAH — A second play therapy room will be set up with part of the $9,500 sought by Winnebago County Guidance Center, Inc., in its current fund drive. The new playroom will be in a basement room to be converted in the WNAM building south of Neenah.

Dr. George Arndt, guidance center psychiatrist and medical director, cited the growing list of clients as the reason for another play therapy room. Dr. Arndt, Dr. John Giebk, psychologist, and Fred Keplfeld, social worker, have completed more than 100 cases of the 300 admitted for evaluation and therapy since the center opened a year ago.

Client Pressure
In addition, the pressure of clients has forced the staff to use a smaller room as both an auxiliary playroom and a group therapy room. If the County Board employs another staff member, the room will be needed as an office, Dr. Arndt said.

Responsibility for providing equipment and facilities is the guidance center corporation's. The larger portion of the costs,

Denies Charge of Assault, Battery

OSHKOSH — John S. Sorce, 28, 230 E. College Ave., Appleton, through his attorney, today denied an assault and battery charge brought by William Coel, 1236 W. Frances St., Appleton. Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane set trial for June 6 and released Sorce without bond. Coel contends the offense occurred April 8 in the Town of Neenah.

Women May Be Taken to Other Jails

County Will Have to Pay Freight, Sheriff Asserts; Notes 30-Day Grace Period

BY JAY REED Post-Crescent Staff Writer

If the Outagamie County Board of Supervisors fails to provide matron service as required by law within 30 days, female prisoners will no longer be detained in the county jail.

Sheriff Robert Heinritz said the decision was reached today after a conference with Dist. Atty. Nick Schaefer. "If we don't have the matron service the state requires," Heinritz said, "our female prisoners will be taken to the nearest available detention quarters where we are certain the matron service complies with the law and where they will accept our prisoners. The county, of course, will have to pay the freight."

Heinritz said he intends to contact Winnebago and Brown County authorities today by letter in an effort to determine how much it will cost Outagamie County to keep its female prisoners at either one of the two jails.

The Post-Crescent, in the wake of Wednesday's disclosure that Outagamie faces loss of the right to detain female prisoners because it has failed to maintain round-the-clock matron service prescribed by law, surveyed authorities in Brown, Calumet, Winnebago and Waupaca Counties regarding matron service state had been "cracking down" for the last year on the matron statute.

All of them, evidently, have been complying with the law, which says a matron must be on duty and awake at all times when a female prisoner is under detention. V. A. Herhulst, detention superintendent for the State Department of Public Welfare, who notified Outagamie officials of the 30-day period in which the county must act, told the Post-Crescent today that "just about every county-daytime matron. A female radio ty in the state has been complying with the statute except yours."

Verhulst indicated, however, that many counties do not now and have never had the problem of holding female prisoners overnight. "If they had a female prisoner," he said, "she was taken to a county which provided proper service." He indicated the state had been "cracking down" for the last year on the matron statute.

Cains to be Sentenced On Thursday

Allan Cain and his wife, Margaret, will be sentenced in Milwaukee Thursday for filing fraudulent income tax returns.

The prominent Appleton attorney and his wife were convicted county transports females to last month on four counts of a federal indictment charging them with understating their tax returns. Verhulst said in his letter to Outagamie County Board Chairman Al Fulcer that the county, District Judge Luther M. Sway had been reminded as early as May 24, 1960, that it was in violation of the matron statute. Sher-sentence at 10 a.m. in room 390 if Heinritz also said he had in the gray-stone Federal Building formed the supervisors of the situation.

Neenah Class Translating Book Into Latin

Children's Classic, 'Peter and the Wolf,' Nearing Completion

The Latin eaze, which started with a translation of the children's classic "Winnie-the-Pooh" into the "dead" language, has prompted a Neenah High School Latin class to attempt a translation of its own.

The Latin II class of Miss Helen Peterson is in the finishing stage of translating into Latin Walt Disney's version of "Peter and the Wolf," adopted from Serge Prokofiev's musical story.

The Walt Disney version of "Peter and the Wolf" has a vocabulary suitable for a 10-year-old and only a few difficulties were encountered in finding equivalent Latin terms.

The students had to improvise for words that were not in existence when Latin was in general use.

The class was divided into groups of four with each group working on a section of the story, independent of the other groups.

After the work is completed the students will attempt to have their translation published.

Neenah Grade Students Get Chance to Learn About Art

Lakeview School Displaying Famous Original Paintings

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — Art appreciation cannot be learned from books alone. This, basically, is the premise of a program at Lakeview elementary school in which the school is obtaining works of art from leading Wisconsin and American artists.

This ambitious program, almost unique in the country, is being led by Mrs. Paul Doering, president of the Lakeview PTA, her husband, and Robert Belle, Lakeview principal.

Twenty-one paintings, in various media, have been obtained thus far, with a goal of 35 to include the schools of thought in painting and media represented by American art.

Bohrud Prized

The prize possession in the collection is a tempera, "Small Town, West Virginia," by Aaron Bohrud, artist-in-residence at the University of Wisconsin.

Bohrud has received numerous art awards including the Ellin P. Speyer award in the annual exhibition of the National Academy of Design in New York City this spring.

His works hang in the permanent collections of such art galleries as the Chicago Institute, the Metropolitan, the Whitney and many others. His works also have been reproduced in such magazines as Life, Fortune, Coronet, Look, Holiday and Time.

Exhibited at Milwaukee

A one-man show of Bohrud's recently closed at the Milwaukee Art Center and a second one is currently being exhibited. He also will have an exhibit at the Bergstrom Art Museum this summer.

The program was suggested last fall by Mrs. Virginia Senn Brown, Butte des Morts, when Mrs. Doering was considering a PTA project for the year.

Mrs. Brown, who studied art at Milwaukee Downer College, taught art at the Menasha Vocational school and Winneconne High School where she attempted to start a similar program about 10 years ago.

Not For Show

"We are not doing this just for show," Belle said. The paintings will be used in classes for demonstrative purposes so the students can see what art work is and what the different techniques are.

The reception by the artists to this idea was, without exception, enthusiastic.

Replies from several of the artists have indicated this. One wrote "there is no better way to develop appreciation and understanding of painting and sculpture than to have original works for the children to see and live with."

Honor to Display

Richard Leikam, Milwaukee, from whom the school is obtaining a pastel painting, wrote "It is with honor and great pride that I accept your offer to own and display one of my paintings in your school."

A former student at Lakeview School, Milne Shier, DePeré, also is represented in the collection with a water color. She attended Lakeview in 1933.

Another nationally known artist represented is Warrington Cole, Madison, who recently won two major awards at the North Dakota art and sculpture show.

Other state and local artists represented include Michael Kasar, art teacher at Two Rivers; Bertha Gesell, Two Rivers; Mary Gosin Witteborg, Green Bay; Elizabeth Catlin, Appleton, with two watercolor landscapes; Esther Clark, Neenah, a pastel; Waneita Steinert, Appleton, an oil painting; Olga Bober, Appleton, an oil; and Mietzi Bleck, wood block prints.

More Planned

In the next two weeks paintings from Carla Heller Bell, Covington, Va.; Eugene Budroot, Burlington; J. C. Wylie, Milwaukee; Jessie K. Chase, Sturgeon Bay, and Frederic Wurl will be added to the collection.

The collection was started with a painting by Michael Kasar, which was given to the school by Mrs. Bryan Clark, Neenah.

At the present time most of the paintings are hung in the multipurpose room in the basement of the school. Plans are to distribute the paintings around the building.

While not considered part of the collection, six original editorial cartoons also have been given to the school, one by R. A. Lewis, of the Milwaukee Journal, and five by Karl Hubenthal, of the Hearst syndicate.

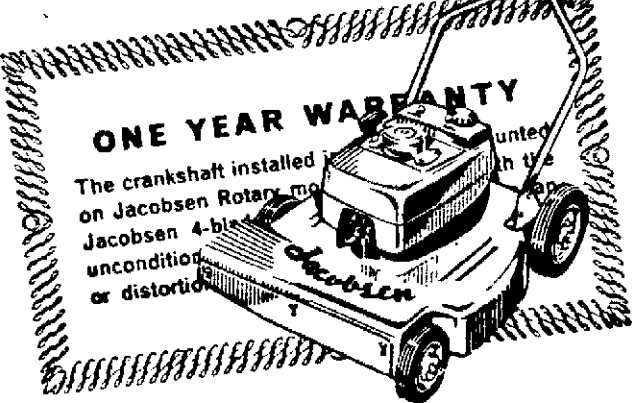

Belle said that eventually he would like to expand into photography.

Starting a new lawn this spring?

1. Don't worry about poor soil. You don't need to go to the trouble and expense of bringing in topsoil. Any soil—even subsoil—can give a satisfying lawn with regular feedings of Scotts protein-building TURF BUILDER®.
2. Don't be taken in by seed "bargains." You want a good lawn, not a hayfield. Cheap mixtures contain wild grasses that will plague you for the life of your lawn. Scotts seed is all good grass, perennial and weed-free.
3. Don't plant the wrong kind of lawn. Be realistic. If you need a lawn that stands up to the punishment of children and weather, choose Scotts PLAY seed. If appearance is paramount, Scotts FAMILY® or CLASSIC®.

Lesson in English

Words often misused: "Concur IN" should be followed by an action, and "Concur WITH" should be followed by a person. Thus: "I concur IN the decision to place this matter in your hands," and "I concur WITH my colleague in his opinions."

Often mispronounced Sagittarius (sign of the zodiac). Pronounce first syllable as "say" not as "sag."

Often misspelled Devis (the noun), and devise (the verb).

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: confute, to overwhelm by argument; to refute. "He was finally able to confute his severest critics."

Lawrence Appoints 8 New Faculty Members

Four Permanent, Four Temporary Instructors Included on List

Eight new faculty members have been appointed at Lawrence College for the 1961-62 school year. President Douglas M. Knight announced.

Four of them are permanent additions, while the other four are temporary replacements for faculty members on leave.

They are: Kenneth R. Venderbush, dean of men, Dr. Elisabeth Koffka, Whitney visiting professor in history; Mira Tanguchi, assistant professor of voice; Joseph B. Henry, visiting assistant professor of music; James B. Dana, instructor in economics; Peter B. Samuels, instructor in physical education; Chong-do Hah, instructor in government; and Monroe B. Olson, instructor in music education.

Dean Venderbush replaces Dean Alexander R. Cameron who has resigned to accept another administrative position. The new appointee is an alumnus of Kalamazoo College, holds an M.A. in speech from Wayne University, and is a candidate for the Ph.D. in speech and psychology at Ohio State University. During the past year he has been assistant to the executive dean at Ohio State, and earlier was dean of men and a member of the speech department at St. Lawrence University.

Under Whitney Plan
Dr. Koffka will come to Lawrence under the Whitney program which brings exceptional teachers of retirement age to new college communities. She is German in background and has taught European history at Smith College for 31 years and has directed the Smith Junior Year in Geneva, Switzerland program for three seasons. Mrs. Koffka will take over courses currently taught by Nenah Fry, who will return to graduate work at Yale University.

Miss Taniguchi will replace George Weiss in the voice department after the latter marries in June. A lyric soprano and an accomplished pianist, Miss Taniguchi holds two degrees and an architect's diploma from Eastman, and has studied for nine years in Italy, first on a Fulbright scholarship. She is now on the faculty of the State University College of Education, Potsdam, N.Y.

Hire Yale Alum
James B. Dana, newcomer to the economics department, will take over the courses taught by emeritus professors M. M. Bober and W. A. McConagha, who have each continued to teach part time in recent years. Dana is an alumnus of Yale and is now at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the final phases of his doctoral work.

Peter Samuels, now on the Beloit College staff, is an addition to the Lawrence physical education department. He attended Carleton and was graduated from Beloit, where he majored in economics and minored in physical education.

Korean Appointed
Chong-do Hah, a native of Korea, will replace Dr. Mojmir Povolny in government while the latter is on leave of absence. Hah holds a B.A. with high and departmental honors from Indiana University where he was a Phi Beta Kappa, the M.A. from the University of Virginia, and is now a Ph.D. candidate at Indiana. He has been a teaching and research assistant at the latter institution and research editor for the Asian Studies program.

Monroe Olson, now a band and voice teacher in the Geneva, Ia., consolidated schools, will replace Edgar Turrentine while the latter returns to his Ph.D. work for a year. Olson holds bachelor and master of music education degrees from Drake University, and has had experience in the Des Moines school system.

Revocation of Engel's Permit Now in Effect

New Real Estate Firm Started by Son, James Engel

Joseph J. Engel, Appleton real estate man, has been barred from doing business as a real estate broker.

The one-year revocation of his license dates back to Dec. 28, 1960, when the Wisconsin Real Estate Broker's Board decided to take away his state permit, Thomas Rosenthal says that the decision was made by the board's attorney, Richard Bardwell, to affirm the decision. In effect, the revocation makes it illegal for Engel to show property to prospective buyers, because this is considered negotiating, Rosenthal said.

Engel's son, James, a licensed broker, has founded a new company, Engel Realty Co. Joseph Engel's firm was known as Engel Realtors.

Violated Law
Engel was accused of not maintaining proper trust accounts for money paid on real estate transactions, of mixing clients' funds with his own in three banks in Appleton, Neenah and Menasha, and of holding deposits from clients for excessive lengths of time. The first two charges are violations of a 1959 state law.

Engel closed his office late last year when he became ill. He had been doing business out of his home because Judge Bardwell granted his petition to hold off the board's action until the appeal could be heard.

Two Injured In Car Mishap

Appleton Youths Hurt at Oshkosh As Car Rolls Over

OSHKOSH — Two Appleton youths were injured when the car in which they were riding went off State 114 at the Pendleton Road curve in the Town of Neenah at 1:03 a.m. today.

They are Gene L. Wolf, 18, 406 E. Hoover St., Appleton, driver of the car, and Thomas Marx, 19, 508 S. Story St., Appleton. Wolf received cuts on both the arms last December.

and head and Marx had cuts and bruises on the hands and injury to his back. Both were held overnight at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Winnebago County Police reported the car was eastbound when it went off the highway on the curve, traveling 102 feet in the ditch before striking a culvert at the Henry Malchow driveway. The car then rolled over twice, end over end, and ended on its top on the highway.

Wolf told county police he was going about 50 or 55 miles per hour and when he got into the curve the rear end slid around. The accident happened at what county police have called "death curve" because of four fatalities in separate accidents at that spot.

There are a number of Cadillac virtues that are valuable beyond measurement. Foremost among these is the wonderful acceptance of the car—and the eloquence with which it reveals the character of its owner. Another is the satisfaction the man at the wheel enjoys in knowing that he has surrounded himself and his family with every motoring safeguard. And yet another is the manner in which a Cadillac refreshes a man—and provides him a sanctuary in a busy world. These are but a few of the many extra values that make Cadillac the most tempting possession of its time.

Parnell was a member of the committee which represented the board and made successful arguments for the change before the High Court.

Judge Parnell said the affect of the amendment will be shorter trials and simplification of the trial procedure.

The section of the statutes, as amended, reads:

Section Listed

"It shall be discretionary with the court whether to submit questions (to the jury) in terms of issues of ultimate fact, or to submit separate questions with respect to component issues which comprise such issues of ultimate fact.

"In cases founded upon negligence, the court may submit separate questions as to the negligence of each party and whether such negligence was a cause without submitting separately any particular respect in which the party was allegedly negligent. The court may also direct the jury, if they render a general verdict, to find upon particular questions of fact."

Under the present use of special verdicts, trial courts are compelled to prepare and submit special verdicts that call for jury answers to multiple facts.

Facts Determine Case

The Board of Circuit Judges, when it made the proposal to amend, said no general or comprehensive special verdict questions can be satisfactorily drawn to cover all conceivable factual situations presented by motor vehicle collisions. Each case depends upon the facts presented.

Now, under the amended law, the discretion as to verdict form, contents and make up will be left to the trial court.

Judge Parnell has been one of the leaders among Wisconsin jurists working toward a lessening of backlogs in court cases. He has maintained his court on a current basis during his tenure of office. Judge Parnell's circuit includes Outagamie, Shawano and Langlade Counties.

Oshkosh Will Try Combined Refuse Pickup

Garbage, Rubbish Dumped in Sanitary Fill at Quarry

OSHKOSH — Collection of garbage and rubbish on the same day is being conducted on a trial basis on one route, the Oshkosh City Council was told at a workshop meeting Wednesday night.

The combined rubbish and garbage is being deposited in a quarry in the southwest part of the city under the sanitary land fill method. The city's incinerator is insufficient to handle all garbage collected. The city has been using the quarry for disposal of the additional garbage and the rubbish.

The council received a recommendation to award the 1961 sidewalk program contract to Kuehn and Sommers Construction, Inc., Shiocton, on its low bid of 39 cents per square foot for one contract and 37 cents a square foot for a second contract. The contracts differ depending on the fill required.

Pay For Materials

The city plans construction of 12 miles of sidewalk this year, which is the third year of a total program calling for 70 miles of new sidewalk.

Time was spent discussing the new swimming pool with architects.

Harold Schumeth was recommended for the food concession at the swimming pool. He was the high bidder.

The council also discussed the offer of Club 13, Inc., to pay the materials cost of a metal fencing around the softball diamond on Sawyer Avenue if the city will pay for the labor. The club would pay the $2,700 fencing cost over a 10-year period while the labor cost is estimated at $1,800.

Plan Tournament

A regional girls' softball tournament is planned for the softball diamond this August.

The council also decided to stand pat on its recommendation for installation of five finger docks along Lake Winnebago and the Menomonee Park area, although the park board wanted to install only two docks. The council said it had reached a compromise with boaters where in it agreed to five docks, one of which is to be at the end of E. New York Avenue.

Kaukauna Man Breaks Leg in Scaffold Fall

KAUKAUNA — Thomas L. Oudenhoven, 307 W. Prospect Ave., Appleton, fell from a scaffold and broke his leg while working on a Rabideau Sales building at 200 W. Wisconsin Ave. about 4 p.m. Wednesday.

He was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital in the city ambulance.

4-H Demonstration

Roger Van Groll used two live rabbits in a demonstration on how to carry rabbits at the April meeting of Valley 4-H Club.

Talks were given by Richard Spiernings, Dolores Van Groll, Gary Ver Voort and Peter Van Groll. Joan Hendricks gave a demonstration.

Committee Holds Police Request For Insurance

A request by Appleton policemen for an income protection insurance plan is being held by the public safety committee for further study.

The committee said it wants to meet with the men, or a committee representing them, to find out exactly what kind of coverage they want and how much it will cost the city.

Policemen sent a letter to the committee saying, "We feel our present insurance plans of varying natures are not sufficient. In the event of off-duty sickness or accident we have no coverage beyond each individual's accumulated sick leave. Rather than apply to the city for relief at such a time we would prefer to have an income protection policy."

The policemen suggest that the new insurance might be included in a package plan, with the cost to be shared by the men and the city.

Police Chief Walter Hendricks was instructed by the committee to arrange for a meeting with the men as soon as possible, so that if the insurance is granted its cost can be included in next year's budget.

Businessman At Marion Dies Driving Auto

Edward Wiesman Succumbs Backing Out of Driveway

MARION — Edward Wiesman, 66, an associate with the Northern Milling Co. for 41 years, died after a heart attack as he backed his car out of his driveway about 6:45 a.m. Wednesday.

He apparently backed the car into a tree about 25 feet from the garage and then drove 20 feet back toward the garage and put the car in neutral gear. Neighbors found him dead in the car with the motor running.

He worked at Northern Milling Co. for 36 years before retiring. He was a stockholder for an additional five years. He was active in American Legion Post 198.

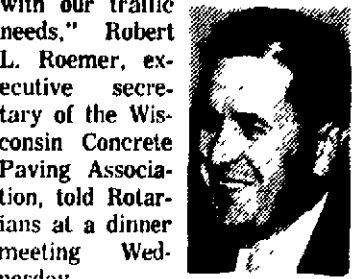

The post will conduct a military funeral at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Schroeder Funeral Home with the Rev. Edward Langdon, King Army Home chaplain, in charge. Burial will be in Greenleaf Cemetery.

He is survived by his widow, one son, five grandchildren and four brothers.

Roads Fail to Keep Pace With Traffic Needs

Former Mayor of Appleton Speaker At Kaukauna Event

KAUKAUNA — "Although we own the best highway system in the world, it has not kept pace with our traffic needs," Robert L. Roemer, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Concrete Paving Association, told Rotarians at a dinner meeting Wednesday.

Pointing to Roemer the 73 million registered vehicles in this country today compared to half that many in 1940 and projecting an increase of 31 per cent to 111 million by 1975, Roemer told of the urgent need for highway work to help prepare for even greater use in the future.

The speaker told of a federal plan for a vast system of super highways connecting every state. The program started in 1956 and continues although the government has been forced to find new sources of revenue to continue.

Benefits Seen

"These highways will bring a new concept of transportation to America, and will, I am sure, help foster even greater economic growth and will strengthen our vital defense lifelines."

Most important will probably be the saving of about 4,000 lives per year, he said, along with the economic boost provided areas through jobs provided during highway construction.

Allied industries to road building will benefit, Wisconsin products will be in a better competitive position for out of state markets and the system will enhance Wisconsin as a recreational state. Roemer indicated the users of highways, who were demanding better highways, should assume the tax burden for roads.

Sonkowski Collapses, Has Oxygen Near

It isn't everyone who has an oxygen tank within easy reach when he becomes ill. But Appleton's 15th Ward alderman, Allan Sonkowski had that advantage Wednesday when he collapsed at work.

Sonkowski, a welder at Consolidated Water Power and Paper Co., was working under a machine when he experienced difficulty breathing.

From his bed in Appleton Memorial Hospital, the alderman told the Post-Crescent today that he called for help, then took the oxygen tank from his welding unit, opened the valve and held it near his mouth and nose so he could breathe the oxygen.

Sonkowski was held in the hospital for 24 hours for observation, and is scheduled to go home this afternoon.

He said he has to confer with his doctor Saturday to find out when he can go back to work.

Nee-Vin Tavern Owner Pays Fine

OSHKOSH — James Track, route 1, Neenah, operator of the Nee-Vin Motel Tavern, today admitted allowing two girls, 19 and 20, to loiter on the tavern premises. He was fined $48.05 by Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane.

The offense occurred April 15 and the two Oshkosh girls involved were fined $20 and costs each April 17 for loitering.

Track was arraigned April 17 and preliminary hearing was to have been held today.

He explained automotive tax structures in other states which could help solve much of the state problem if adopted in Wisconsin. Roemer indicated the users of highways, who were demanding better highways, should assume the tax burden for roads.

New Court Cost Unknown

BY REINY WESSING
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

How much will the operation of Outagamie County's new court, the third branch of the county court, cost the taxpayers?

No one can answer that question for sure. Plans on where and how the court facilities will be arranged have only begun. The court comes into being Jan. 1, 1962.

A lot depends on what type of cases it will handle, what personnel will be needed to help operate it and what office facilities must be provided.

The cost of the court itself is not the only question. The very existence of the new court will affect the operation of the clerk of courts office and the district attorney's office.

Affects Other Offices

What new personnel and what additional office space are likely court, the present municipal court, might drop. Municipal court now handles all the traffic cases.

Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmeige says he thinks Branch 2 and Branch 3 will be quite self-supporting. He bases his opinion on the belief that more small cases will be brought to county court, since justices of the peace will be stripped of most of their power by the reorganization act.

The judge says he doubts that many cities, villages and towns will create municipal justice of the peace courts, with wider jurisdiction than regular JPs. The communities would have to pay the justice a salary and provide a courtroom and office, and clerical help if needed.

Outagamie County's share of fines and fees collected in municipal court last year was $36,518. The 1959 share was $33,856.

This year the court has a budget of $47,000, of which $7,530 will go to help pay salaries for the clerk of courts and his personnel. Another $11,000 is for the judge's salary.

(Under the court reorganization act all county judges will get $12,000, half paid by the state and half by the county. The state also will pay half of the court reporter's $6,000 salary.

Fines and fees collected in municipal court last year totaled $123,062, but a substantial portion of the fines were turned over to the state and the City of Appleton.

Utility Seeks Main Bids

Installation Work Will be Continued Throughout Summer

KAUKAUNA — The Electric and Water utility is seeking bids for the installation of 6-inch water main. Bids will be accepted until 4 p.m., May 3.

Bidders are to quote the price per foot for installation. Work is to be started within 30 days after bids are awarded and will be installed until Nov. 1.

William Ranquette, utility manager, indicated all materials will be furnished by the utility. The successful bidder must transport pipe, fittings, valves and hydrants from the stock yard in Kaukauna to the location of work.

Work is to include excavating, laying and connecting the pipe and providing back fill. The trench must be dug suitable for 54-feet of cover over the top of the pipe. The utility will test all pipe before permitting backfilling. Price quoted per foot will not include rock excavation.

Queries Answered

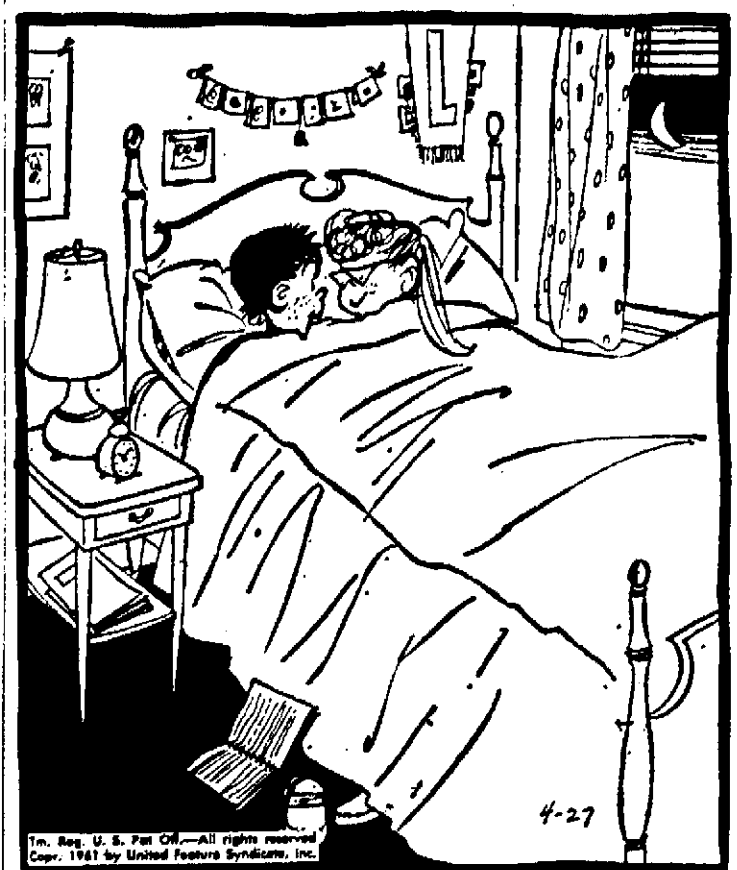

Fifty per cent of state traffic fines goes to the state, part of which comes back to the county as education aid. Also 90 per cent of state criminal case fines go to the state. The entire amount of fines from city cases goes to the city, and this has been averaging $35,000 a year, Judge Schmeige says.

The county can keep all court costs, all county case fines, and all state traffic arrest forfeitures, Judge Schmeige says.

The present county court has a budget this year of $25,500.

Circuit court has a $22,000 budget, of which $7,170 goes to pay part of the salaries for personnel in the clerk of court office. Most of the remainder goes to pay jurors. The judge is paid by the state, but may be paid something additional by the county. Starting

Still Face Problems Red Chinese Working On Test Tube Babies

HONG KONG (AP)—China's 650 millions aren't multiplying fast enough for the Communists. They are working on test-tube babies.

"Many theoretical and technical problems remain to be solved," a Chinese scientist reported in the official Peiping People's Daily.

The government organ devoted 3,500 words to the subject, indicating the importance the Peiping regime attaches to the possibility of test-tube babies in China.

It's part of Peiping's paradoxical but heavy propaganda emphasis on Communist China's need for manpower.

Despite its teeming population, China is short of machinery—on the farm and in the factory—and it must use manpower to fill the slack. In China, manpower is cheaper than machinery.

The scientist, Chang Tso-kan, said in his report, "For human beings, nine months of pregnancy is no light or easy burden. Such diseases as poisoning due to pregnancy are detrimental to health. If children can be had without being conceived, the work and labor of mothers need not be affected by child birth. This is happy news for women."

Culture of Embryos

Chang reported on experiments being conducted in Italy, the Soviet Union and the United States on the "extracorporeal fertilization of the human ova and the culture of human embryos."

He gave no details on experiments in China but Peiping's scientists apparently are following experiments abroad with keen interest. He cited the three Italian scientists who fertilized a human ovum in a test tube and kept it alive for 29 days before they destroyed it.

"These achievements are of extreme importance," Chang said, "and they have opened up bright perspectives for similar research."

He said such experiments also would make it possible to control the sex of babies and "gratify the wish of parents for either sons or daughters."

But more important than that, he said, it would clear the way for planning birth rates—of children of either sex—on a national scale.

Chicago Doctor Leaves $220,000 To Receptionist

CHICAGO (AP) — A bachelor doctor, who for 20 years withheld part of his receptionist's $40-a-week salary to invest and promised her a good return, left her $220,000 of his estimated $250,000 estate.

The amount of the fortune left to Mrs. Betty Fedyn, 47, was disclosed when the will of Dr. James J. Lewis, an eye specialist, was filed in probate court.

Dr. Lewis, who died April 19 at the age of 81, identified Mrs. Fedyn, in his will as "my trusted friend" and provided she should receive all except $30,000 of the net estate. Atty. Eugene A. Tappay, who filed the will, estimated the estate at $250,000.

Mrs. Fedyn said she started working for Dr. Lewis in 1941 after she had gone to him for treatment of an eye ailment. She said she plans to "take it easy" and write lyrics for songs, which she said always has been her ambition.

She married John Fedyn, 52, a cost accountant, in 1957, and has a son, David Bangert, 23, by her first husband whom she divorced in 1941.

Lewis willed $10,000 each to a Chicago hospital and to two relatives in Sydney, Australia, Roy Syied, a grand-nephew, and Mrs. Violet Dickson, a grand-niece.

Proper Ventilation of Home, Place of Work, Important

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.
Here's another little story that occurred recently and will, I trust, be truly useful.
The man was a chef and his complaint was that he felt "all dragged out." His heart was in fine shape, his blood count was entirely satisfactory, and his chest X-ray was excellent.

Dr. Molner

wrong with him except that he was perpetually pooped.
So we asked—by experience we're learning that it's worth while to ask in cases like this—what about the air in the place where he worked? Was the kitchen getting good ventilation?
He said the ventilator fan was pretty old.
Feel Fine Now
Next word from the chef was this: "That old ventilator broke down, and they installed a new one. I feel fine now. But I found out that everybody else in the place was having that draggy feeling, too."

What caused it? Too much of a trace of carbon monoxide, from the stoves, that wasn't being whisked away fast enough.
I've warned, on more than one occasion, about the danger of carbon monoxide—the deadly danger in closed garages, or in houses with faulty furnaces, and the like. In smaller quantities, however, it can be a serious nuisance if not worse. It can be in your kitchen, your laundry room, your basement, or wherever there is any enclosed place. Remembering the possibility of monoxide may save you a doctor's bill someday, not to mention preventing a needless "tired feeling," headaches, etc.
Prevent Boils
"Dear Dr. Molner: What can be done to prevent boils? I am a man in my middle 30's and have excellent health otherwise. I never had a boil in my life until one year ago. Since then I have had several. R. H."

Boils are the result of germs that lurk on the skin surface. Doubtless we all have these germs—but not enough to get a foothold and cause a boil. Once they create a boil, they multiply—and we have an increased "population" of them on the skin. The way to combat boils is to be scrupulously careful, whenever they break out, to prevent the germs from getting away from that area and beginning to congregate at another spot.
In short, keep a boil covered with a sterile pad or some gauze. After touching it, or the area close to it, scrub the hands well with soap and water. Don't let the germs spread. Gradually you subdue them. Antibiotics or other medication is up to the doctor.

Thickening of Skin
"Dear Dr. Molner: In an article you mentioned 'keratosis,' a thickening of the skin. I have such a spot at the end of my nose. The dermatologist has frozen it three times but it seems to come back. He says it will need plastic surgery.
"Is a postponement dangerous? Could this become cancerous? Is it the same keratosis you spoke of? I am over 50—S.H."

the skin on the foot. It is the result of pressure.
Obviously this isn't the cause of a keratosis on the end of the nose. Such a keratosis is a thickening that occurs in small areas on the face, trunk or arms, and is called a "senile keratosis," although I must say that the term is disquieting to any of us who may be middle aged but don't regard ourselves as exactly "senile" yet.
Postponement of treatment is not dangerous and cancer is not likely. (Should it bleed, or otherwise show disturbing signs, then of course your doctor might reasonably want it removed at once. But in general removal is primarily in the dictated by cosmetic considerations.)

Convair Flights to Begin at Clintonville

Special Group to Go to Milwaukee On First Plane of Type Leaving Sunday

CLINTONVILLE—Convair service will be initiated here by North Central Airlines Sunday. The southbound flight will arrive at 9:34 a. m. and leave at 9:40 a. m. The northbound flight will arrive at 9:40 a. m. and leave at 9:46 a. m.

The Clintonville Association of Commerce and the Common Council are cooperating to publicize the event. A group of 20 persons is planning to board the Convair for the southbound flight to Milwaukee and attend the Milwaukee Braves game Sunday afternoon.

Jim Huffman, president of the Association of Commerce, at a special meeting of the city council Wednesday evening said arrangements are being made for publicity at the Braves game before play-time.

In January, the Civil Aeronautics Board authorized North Central Airlines to continue service to Clintonville, the city of its birth. The ruling followed hearings held since July of last year and culminated with a personal city appearance before the CAB last November.

GREEN BAY — Raymond Verhagen, 36, Wrightstown, was convicted on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a child in Municipal Court Tuesday. Sentence was withheld for the former coach of boys' athletic teams at Wrightstown Judge Donald W. Gleason ordered him placed on probation to the state department for a full-time juvenile court judge Judge Cane said his time is about evenly split between the Municipal Court and the Juvenile Court, but he felt that help for the judge was needed more at this time than a full-time judge. Rev. Hanchett said he felt it was time to think about a full-time juvenile judge.

Movies Shown
The delinquency charge involved showing of some indecent movie films to the 13-year-old by Verhagen in September, 1958. Verhagen, who was arraigned on the charges last Feb. 7, has steadily maintained his innocence on all counts. This morning, after dismissal of the two felony charges, he changed his plea on the misdemeanor count to guilty through his attorney, Fred Kaftan. As conditions of probation, Verhagen will be required to continue private psychiatric care at his own expense, waive the patient-doctor privilege and allow monthly reports on treatment and progress to be made to the court and probation authorities and also pay court costs.

School Girl Finds Mother Dead at Home

Hughes said Mrs. Doern spoke to her husband on the telephone about 11 a.m. The time of death was set at 1 p.m.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. Mary Catholic Church with burial in the parish cemetery.

Mrs. Doern is survived by her widower, her daughter, her mother, five brothers and a sister.

Five Police Chiefs, all on the board of directors of the Wisconsin Police Chiefs Association, examine a list of bills before the legislature that will affect law enforcement. The chiefs discussed the pros and cons of almost 50 bills when they met at the Club Terrace in Appleton Wednesday. Seated, from left are Appleton Police Chief Walter J. Hendricks; Janesville Chief Jasper Webb, association president and Kaukauna Chief Harold Engerson. Standing, from left, are Neenah Chief Irving Stilp and Plymouth Chief Glen Zimmerman, association treasurer.

obtained, including names of close relatives and friends.

On minor offenses, the procedure usually is to call in the offender and his parents for a talk. A check on how the boy or girl is doing is kept through the leaders of organizations to which the youth belongs.

Full-Time Judge?
Judge Cane and the Rev. Mr. Hanchett disagreed on the need for a full-time juvenile court judge. Judge Cane said his time is about evenly split between the Municipal Court and the Juvenile Court, but he felt that help for the judge was needed more at this time than a full-time judge. Rev. Hanchett said he felt it was time to think about a full-time juvenile judge.

What kind of psychiatric and psychological services are provided? Dunwiddie asked.

The county is fortunate to have the Guidance Center, Judge Cane said. However, he added, the court hasn't been able to make full use of the center because of the heavy load on center personnel.

Quality of detention facilities also was brought up. Capt. Marouf said the Neenah Police station has been approved to hold juvenile offenders for up to 48 hours. After that time they must be taken to the county jail.

Whitford said the county facilities probably were as good as other county jails in the state but this did not mean they are adequate.

The biggest problem, he said, is the inability to plan or develop any type of juvenile program at the present jail.

Rev. Hanchett said a report on the study made by his committee on county needs for handling juveniles will be ready in June.

Someone Goofed On This Ticket

CHILTON — Someone in the State Motor Vehicle Department's Madison office will be slightly red faced this week when he corrects a mistake on a driver point assessment against the license of Math Nilles, Calumet County clerk of circuit court.

Nilles was notified early this week by the department that he had lost six points as a result of a speeding conviction. The only trouble was, Nilles couldn't recall having been arrested and was in the hospital at the time of violation.

It turned out that a report submitted by Nilles to the Motor Vehicle Department on Circuit Court action taken on an appealed speeding case was misinterpreted and the clerk's name used instead of the offender's.

State Tax Bill Opposed by C of C Group

Appleton Unit Disagrees With Hikes in Levies

Opposition to a tax bill before the state legislature was voiced this week by the legislative committee of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce. Included in the bill are an increase in income tax rates, withholding tax provisions, increasing personal exemptions, a franchise tax on net income of banks, savings and loans and other financial institutions.

The committee also went on record favoring five bills, opposing four other measures and took no action on one additional bill.

Other Bills
Other bills opposed were measures to set up a consumers council as part of the Attorney General's staff and two bills which would seek curbs on advertising. Receiving support were two bills dealing with taxation. One measure would require a $2 filing fee for every person or corporation filing a tax return, but not paying a tax. A second bill would provide for simplification of state income tax, bringing returns and computation in line with federal law.

In Public Interest
Also gaining support was a bill to provide that all automobiles purchased on credit be covered with insurance to cover physical damage to the car. "Compulsory insurance as proposed in this bill would be in the public interest and would provide the auto purchaser with protection which he has the right to expect," the committee said.

The committee also favored a bill which would allow complaints against obscene matter to be brought by the district attorney in the name of the state. This measure would bring the law into compliance with normal practice. No position was taken on a bill to increase weekly subsistence allowances in garnishment actions.

retirement of Cranston Williams last year, gave his first annual report.

Papers Need Sluggers, Editor Tells Meeting

Must Prove Reason for Existence, Texas Executive Tells Publishers

NEW YORK (AP)—A Texas across the nation, Canada and editor said today newspapers do not need defenders but rather sluggers who will make the daily newspaper imperative to troubled citizens hungering for information in a tense world.

"We must prove the reasons for our being," Felix R. McKnight, vice-president and executive editor of the Dallas Times Herald, told the 75th annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

"Wise men gave us constitutional protection. Men before us earned the newspaper's right to that privilege."

Can't Let Down
The publisher and editor of the day must give that privilege even more stature and repute—or let down completely the millions who hunger to know, that they might live."

McKnight spoke at the final general session of the three-day convention, attended by more than 1,200 publishers, editors and other newspaper executives from ANPA general manager upon the mount.

Four Speak
Four speakers, besides McKnight, prepared addresses for the ANPA session.

Dr. Claire Eckels of the Baltimore, Md., public school system described the newspaper as "a living textbook" for classrooms.

Joyce A. Swan, executive vice-president of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, reported on a trend toward increased expenditures by newspapers for research.

J. Warren McClure of the Burlington, Vt., Free Press gave some suggestions on how to sell newspaper advertising.

Discuss Costs
Arthur A. Brown, comptroller of the Newport News, Va., Daily Press and Times-Herald, told the committee, reported there were 10 newspaper strikes last year, compared with 38 in 1959, and that 1,200 publishers, editors and other newspaper executives from ANPA general manager upon the mount.

Deer Looks Casually at City, Leaves

CHILTON — An unexpected visitor took a casual look at the city's western residential area Wednesday and left.

Homeowners were surprised about 4:45 p.m. when a full grown deer, a doe, strolled nonchalantly between homes on School Street. Apparently it crossed the lot from Court Street. The animal then headed south crossing W. Main Street, according to witnesses, swam the Manitowoc River where it is well over 200 feet wide, and ambled back to the woodlands after browsing briefly in the fairgrounds.

May Cleanup Day Set at Menasha

MENASHA — The week of May 16 was suggested Wednesday by the Common Council's Streets Committee for the annual spring cleanup period, in which any articles of unrestricted size and make up can be discarded.

The committee decided to buy 250 gallons of rubber-base paint for marking lines on city streets. Some Sunday morning in May, between 5 and 11 a.m., the street department will paint lines on Main street and in the downtown area.

Washed Out Dam Causes Flood In Connecticut

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (AP)—A dam gave way at Crystal Lake before dawn today, sending a four-foot wall of water rushing into an area of a dozen homes. No one was killed.

The water poured down a hill, swirled across a chicken farm and millbrook road and a half-mile from where it started—gushed into an area of small houses.

Some residents dashed through the darkness to higher ground. Others moved to second floors. Nobody was hurt seriously although three were treated for minor injuries.

Damage estimates ranged up to several hundred thousand dollars. Police Chief John Pomfret said 10 homes were damaged.

The water broke trees down, tossed boulders around like pebbles, damaged four roads, moved one car 400 yards, cracked porches and homes and moved houses from their foundations.

In its 15-minute rampage, it gorged into the boiler room of the Russell Manufacturing Co., forcing the plant to close.

Behind it, the water left two to three inches of debris in homes, furniture upset, flopping, dying fish—and frightened residents.

Fresh Vegetables As 'Beauty Foods'

Post-Crescent Food Editor

Contrary to legend, carrots definitely will not make hair curly . . . they will not even produce a single ringlet . . . just as broccoli, asparagus and other Spring vegetables available now are not cure-alls. But these fresh vegetables do have an important quality in common . . . they may be classified as true "beauty foods" . . . especially when served in salads.

Carrots are extremely high in vitamin A, so necessary for vibrant health. One average carrot provides more than the full amount of vitamin A recommended as the daily requirement for a normally active adult. So to help keep skin clear and healthy, to protect teeth and eyesight, it's a good idea to munch a fresh carrot a day, either alone or with other foods.

Asparagus and broccoli are both low in calories and sodium content and thus are highly recommended for weight-watchers and those on sodium-restricted diets.

One cup of asparagus spears has only 36 calories, yet each cup provides over half the daily vitamin C needs, iron and a good amount of B vitamins. Broccoli has 44 calories per cup, but abounds in vitamin A, iron and vitamin C.

These salad recipes feature the trio of beauty foods . . . asparagus with a variety of dressings . . . carrots teamed with the ever popular and nutritious Waldorf Salad . . . broccoli molded in a gelatin salad topped with chopped hard-boiled eggs.

ples. Add celery, nuts, salt and mayonnaise. Mix lightly, but thoroughly. Peel and shred carrots medium fine. Arrange shredded carrots in shape of nest on serving plates, building up sides. Fill nest with Waldorf Salad. Serve with French dressing sprinkled over the carrots. Recipe makes six servings.

Molded Broccoli Salad
1 pound fresh broccoli
1 envelope plain gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 can condensed consommé (10½ ounces)
4 hard-boiled eggs, chopped
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

Dash Tabasco
¾ cup mayonnaise
radish roses
Iceberg lettuce or romaine
Wash broccoli and trim only a small bit off stem ends. If stalks are large, split each stalk lengthwise almost through flowerets to allow for quicker cooking. Reserve a few flowerets for garnish. Cook broccoli, covered, in small amount of boiling, salted water; cook until just tender. Soften gelatin in cold water. Heat consommé to boiling; add softened gelatin to dissolve. Chop cooked broccoli fine (approximately two cups) and mix with chopped hard-boiled eggs. Add with lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce and Tabasco to gelatin mixture. Fold in mayonnaise; do not worry if mixture curdles. Mix well, then pour into 1½-quart ring mold. Chill until firm.

When ready to serve, unmold on plate and garnish with raw broccoli flowerets, radish roses and crisp lettuce or romaine.

Radish Roses
To make radish roses, cut thin strips of red peel from root end almost to stem end of radish. Make series of petals all around radish. Place immediately in ice water; the petals will fold back. For extra color, leave some of the stem and leaves.

Welcome As the Flowers of spring is the fresh asparagus season. Although famed as a hot vegetable, asparagus has great salad possibilities when combined with imaginative dressings. Here are three different salads all seasoned with Tabasco. At the top, the exciting red pepper seasoning flavors the French dressing of Salad Mimosa. A soy sauce gives an Oriental touch to asparagus, topped with preserved ginger, center, and a low-calorie American blue cheese dressing enhances the salad at the bottom.

Ann Says Wife Should Refuse Ride With Drunken Husband

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think about a husband who entertains the crowd at a party (at some one else's house) by putting a lamp shades on his head, doing a juggling act with the light bulbs, kissing every woman good-night, putting his hat on backwards, leaving the house with a glass of Scotch in his hand and who, finally, tries to jam the house key into the ignition and wonders why it doesn't work.

Then, after narrowly missing a fire hydrant, he drives the car on the sidewalk and says, "This is safer. No cars here."

When I told him he'd better let me drive he became indignant and said "No woman is going to drive me I'm sober as a judge." Comment please. — The Wife

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was engaged in February on my birthday. My fiancée's sisters and aunts gave me two big showers. I received about sixty-five gifts. Some of the fellow's money should have been spent on refreshments? I would hate to eat more than is polite. Can you give me a hint? — Usually Starved

DEAR USUALLY: Play it safe by asking the fellow what he feels like eating. If he says "Not much" then follow his lead and curb your appetite until you get home. If he orders a couple of hamburgers and French fries and a malt, then it's safe for you to order one hamburger and a soft drink. (A girl isn't supposed to be quite as hungry as a boy.)

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Personalized Pattern

Fira Benenson plans a smart arrangement of checks or plaids that will match up to the busiest schedule with refreshing good looks. A tracing of bias curves the neck, continues on the double down the front, then takes a sharp turn at hip level. The set-away neckline is filled-in with a flattering touch of white that unsnaps for quick sud-sing. From a half-round of tiny inverted waistline pleats, gentle ease is released in the slim skirt; its smooth back panel opens into walking pleats. Sleeves can be cropped short or made below-elbow length. Wear your own belt with this delightful dress that's on-the-go year 'round in checks and plaids as well as solid colors—cottons, linen, silk, shantung, lightweight wool or flannel. The neck insert can be linen, pique or faille. From these corresponding body measurements select the one size best for you. Our sizing is comparable to ready-to-wear.

FOR TALL GIRLS

Fira Benenson plans a smart arrangement of checks or plaids that will match up to the busiest schedule with refreshing good looks. The Ailing House Tips Given On Removal Of Mold

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: A few days ago, furnace men noticed the cellar ceiling rafters were covered with mildew in one area; the automatic washer and dryer are in that corner of the cellar. What causes this? Is it serious? What can we do to stop it?

A: Mold develops in the presence of moisture. Since the mildew is concentrated near the washer and dryer, I suspect these appliances are not vented to the outdoors as they should be to permit the vapors to escape. Outdoor vents for these should be installed immediately.

To kill the mold spores on the rafters, scrub thoroughly with a stiff brush and a household bleach solution, allowing to remain about four to five minutes, then rinse generously with clear water. When the wood is completely dry, apply a colorless, wood preservative preparation, available at building supplies dealers, following label directions carefully.

Adequate ventilation and air circulation should be provided in the cellar; there should be louver (or window) openings in each side of a size allowing 1 sq. ft. of opening for each 300 sq. ft. of basement floor area.

STATIC ELECTRICITY

Q: How can I eliminate static electricity in my home? If any one of us just walks across the room and then turns on the TV or touches a light switch we get a shock. The sound of it is audible and carafe and extra serving aid Leisch, Michael Buss and across the room, and at night it pieces if the children often eat in Sharon Hoppe are the sophomores. These are very annoying and we even get them in the room where we have a bare oak floor. Trying to raise the humidity, I check the furnace humidifier regularly and have a little container of water in each room alongside the hot air register; our furnace is gas with forced air. Can you suggest any remedy?

A: Since you are already following the usual remedy for too much static electricity by introducing more moisture into the air, I can only suggest trying one of the anti-static preparations available at some large housewares dealers or rug dealers for use on carpeting. Be sure to get one that doesn't cause dirt to adhere to the floor covering. This is best applied by a professional carpet cleaner.

Miss Jeanette Fenske, Outagamie County home agent, and Mrs. Harold Schmeichel, county home demonstration council president, discuss the Homemakers night program with Dr. Robert Samp, Madison. "Shortcuts to Longevity" was the topic of his address.

Homemakers Given Pointers on Health

SEYMOUR — "You must consider you are custodian of your body and need good common sense to insure longevity and a good life," Homemakers of Outagamie County were told here Wednesday night.

Dr. Robert J. Samp, University Hospital, Madison, attempted to give the more than 500 women attending the annual Achievement Night program pointers on how to improve their physical condition and explain some of the quack medicines on the market today.

"I will tend to insult you a little bit," he said, "because I speak from the heart." Women, he said, are notoriously healthy and have better resistance to disease and outlive men by three to five years.

First Toughest
In life, Dr. Samp said, the first hour and the first day and the first year are the toughest. Once we are over the first year we are over the hump and the sky is the limit for life, "if we use medical science and the gifts God has given us to stay healthy."

We are made up of false notions, he said. "We think gargling is a way of cleansing, we use powders, cosmetics, dyes, compounds and pinch our feet into pointed shoes. No one has invented a shoe for women that is as large on the inside as the foot that goes into it," he continued.

Look at America
Let's take a look at America today, he said. We wake up in the morning saying we didn't sleep good last night. We need to get our motor going so we take a pick-me-up pill and two cups of coffee. About half way through the morning we need the first tranquilizer to calm the motor. By lunch we are depressed and take more coffee and tranquilizers. "The poor old stomach is looking up the gullet and wondering what's next," he continued. Unadulterated living is what we need. Too many pill houses are by the medical profession as we want it, Dr. Samp said, because we still are in the scientific testing stage and are not able to offer you explanations for many remedies. "When you put science in the hands of people who don't know much science, we're in trouble."

To improve health he suggested drinking more water, eating the simple foods of life, such as vegetables and meat, and getting lots of sleep. The pill we need for life has to come from inside, he said.

List Winners
Homemakers awarded a $150 scholarship to Marlene Zibell, Seymour, who will study home economics this fall at Stout State College. LuAnn Schraeder, Hortonville, was runnerup.

Charter members of the homemaker organization were given pins and a skit presented in their honor. The history of homemakers in the county was traced. The organization was started in 1923 and has grown to 875 members with seven centers and 54 clubs. It is the largest single organization of women in the county.

Jeanette Feske, home agent, discussed work during the last year. The program was led by Mrs. Harold Schmeichel, county home demonstration council president.

WIDOW'S RING PROBLEM

I am 24-years-old and my husband died two weeks ago. What is the proper thing to do about my wedding and engagement rings? My mother thinks I should remove them right away. She says that if later on I happen to date a man that people will think I'm either married to him or that I'm cheating on my husband. I really want to continue wearing my rings.

Louise Davis Answers:

Wear them by all means. Only you can read your own heart and only you can tell when and if it is time to remove one or both of your rings. If you continue to be a widow, you may want to wear them for the rest of your life. I can't understand your mother's point of view. She must know that grief doesn't end abruptly and that you are far from ready to think of being courted or to even go to a movie with a male friend. Friends and acquaintances know that you are a widow and if in a few months you should be seen with a man, they will know that you are still Mrs. X. And how can they think that you are cheating on your husband when they know he is dead? When being introduced to strangers, they would naturally assume that you are a widow who is being escorted by a man with another name. If complete strangers see you and a man in public, they will have no thoughts whatsoever. If you happen to fall in love later on, you may wish to remove your engagement ring. If and when you are engaged, you may also wish to put away the wedding ring, but you also have the prerogative to wear it until your second husband places another one on your finger.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

1. Who are more ticklish? Men— Women—

Neither, claims a study made at the Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago. And babies aren't ticklish at all! Ticklish people are more emotional than others. There seems to be little biological difference between those who are ticklish and those who are not, since both groups have the same nerve responses. It appears to be

2. Do most Americans fear the dishonesty of big business?

Yes— No—

No. A careful study by specialists in industrial relations revealed that our main concern is that big businessmen will use their very considerable power without regard for the public good. There is a common feeling that our industrial leaders are out only to make profits for their company, without taking the public interest into account. Americans look to big business for public leadership which they feel is too often lacking.

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

(LOVE TO DIGEST THE NEWS!)

Q. My parakeet has the habit of eating paper on which his gravel is placed. Can this harm him?

Mary Ann Warnowicz, South River, N. J.

A. Parakeets will eat the paper on which their seeds are placed quite frequently. Whether they have any ill effects depends upon the type of paper used and the quantity eaten. Paper sold for this purpose in pet stores is usually quite safe unless eaten in excessive amounts, which causes constipation. Newspaper and other printed paper may be dangerous even in small amounts as parakeets may be susceptible to some substances in it. If your bird develops a passion for paper, it may be wiser to use none at all, or to fasten it to the bottom of the cage with an adhesive so it will be easy to remove when cleaning.

Know Child as Individual, Says Boys Town Leader

BY JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Seventeen years ago—"to meet an immediate need"—the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John Patrick Carroll-Abbing went out into the streets of Rome and gathered in the homeless children roaming in packs. "It wasn't hard to get them to come with me," he says. "Just the idea of a free meal in those days—"

Started Home
In a few months he had started a home for children in a bombed-out villa not far from Rome. He after Father Flanagan's in Ne-was on special assignment from braska, have their own mayors. Pope Pius XII and he thought sanitation departments, public that when the emergency was works, sports, court and bank. over he would go back to his duties at the Vatican. People from all over the world visit the towns. "You get more out of it than Girls Town and 30 children's just the regular tourist sights," he says, with some pride. "At the center of it all is the child. That's the impact on visitors. The first impression is radiant happiness on the part of the children."

for youngsters who need help. He has become an international authority on youth problems. A small, bespectacled, scholarly priest, Msgr. Carroll-Abbing in on his annual U.S. visit to confer with his numerous volunteer com-mittees and direct fund-raising bails in a handful of large cities. "I wish some millionaire would adopt us," he says wistfully. "The towns themselves are self-support-ing, but we need money for buildings, for expansion."

The monsignor thinks it all boils down to this: "For a child to grow he needs to be known as an individual, in six weeks."

cared for as an individual, planned for as an individual and be loved as an individual—no, not AN individual but THE individual."

He offers two rules for parents:
1. Know your child: "That may seem a strange thing to say, but parents often don't know their child, and try to push him into patterns. When a child doesn't have a family, institutions must do the same thing. We spend months finding out about a boy, even before he comes to one of our towns."

Have Confidence
2. Have confidence in your child: "Put high ideals in front of him—not through preaching but through an environment where people live them. Then expect high standards of work-manship. Some people say 'But he's only 10.' So they let him be slovenly and lazy at 10, and then at 13 they expect him suddenly to change. Inspire him now, and make it easy for him."

For youth workers he gives this advice: "It's important that people in this work don't look for immediate rewards. Do what you can, do your maximum, then leave it to God."

"No youngster, unless he's psychopathic, should ever be de-spaired of. There's great capacity for good in everyone. But you can't expect to turn a boy of 18 who's been in trouble a long time into a clean-cut, upstanding youth in six weeks."

Confession Is Good for Child if Kept Secret

BY ANGELO PATRI

When a child takes something from a neighbor's house or from a shop, and his mother discovers his fault, should she make him return it to its owner and tell him that he took it? Some parents think this is the best way to cure this sort of thing. It shames the child so that he won't repeat the mistake.

I can't go along with that idea. A child, any child of any age, needs all the strength and dignity his self respect allows. Take that from him by forcing him to take shame on himself in the minds of his companions or grownup neighbors and it weakens him just when he needs strength the most.

Learns in Time

A small child is likely to carry home "some little toy" the coveted. If his mother can say, "You take that back and put it right where you found it," and see that he did so, that's fine. In time he learns.

The older child, usually between the ages of 6 and 12, sometimes goes to the dime store to pick up something he wants. This can become a dangerous practice unless it is promptly stopped. When a parent discovers this, he should see that the articles are returned. But it should not be necessary to make him go to the salesclerk and confess what he has done and return the thing. There are ways of returning the articles without that and parents can manage it.

Train Child

One way to avoid such trying happenings is to train the child from the day he is first taken on a shopping trip to keep his hands off anything he sees. Watching a runabout child in a shop is almost impossible, but if his mother has a harness on him while she shops she can know where he is every minute and her "Don't touch," can be effective.

Confession is good for the soul, but parents must use some discretion, some common sense about it. Confession must or should, be made to one who holds it a sacred secret, the clergyman, physician, lawyer, the person who is an accepted depository for secrets. Children's errors should be kept secret if at all possible lest at the start of their lives they be damned for years to come in the minds of their neighbors.

A few thousand college students took a novel kind of test last month when they played in the annual Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament. The same hands are played by all of the students in their various colleges to see if they've studied their bridge books diligently.

The test on this hand, taken from this year's Intercollegiate Tournament, was the management of the trumps.

Rad students fell into the trap which is to win an early heart and draw trumps at once. It takes all four trumps to draw those held by East and South is defenseless after he has extracted trumps.

Declarer must go over to dummy with a diamond to try the club finesse. This loses to the king of clubs, and West promptly takes the rest of the hearts.

Side Suit First

South can avoid this ignominious fate by working on his side suit first. After winning the first trick with the ace of hearts, South leads a trump to dummy's queen. Then he returns the queen of clubs from dummy as a finesse.

The finesse loses to West's king, but West can cash only one heart. Then dummy's trumps bar the way to further heart tricks. No matter what West does, South can regain the lead and draw trumps. He then takes the rest of the tricks with good clubs and dummy's top diamonds.

Daily Question

As dealer you hold S 7 6 H K Q J 10 2, D Q 4 3 C K 8 3. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. Despite the strong major suit the hand is not quite worth an opening bid. (Copyright 1961)

A Lovelier You
By Mary Sue Miller

Occasion Clothes

"I haven't a thing to wear!" how many times have you said it? And how often have you rushed out to buy a dress for an occasion? How often did the dress become a skeleton in your closet? Clothes selected with one event in mind almost always prove of little use for they are either out of key with the rest of one's wardrobe or too high-kevel for one's customary way of life.

Admittedly, there are a few rarefied events, such as your senior prom or your wedding, when you can make a special purchase without penalty. But if a woman wishes always to have the right thing to wear at the drop of an invitation she must become a clothes collector with a wily plan.

The aim is to assemble a basic wardrobe of one complete costume for casual, daytime and evening occasions. In terms of hot weather, that could mean a classic spectator dress, a soft summer suit, an all-purpose coat, and a jacketed after-five costume. Each must have a set of perfectly co-ordinated accessories. The coat must be in a shade that complements those of the other outfits.

Such a wardrobe will take you anywhere, and in best-dressed style. What's more if you plan ahead purchases can be spread out. You might buy a coat this summer, a suit next year. In fact rotating large purchases is a smart idea. Coats and suits in particular, give long service. Acquired on a rotation basis, new ones become additions instead of replacements. Nice thought!

In fashion, nothing makes you lovelier than color. It can enhance your skin, hair, eyes and figure. It can express your individuality and style. Great powers, those! To learn how to put them to work for you, read our leaflet, "Your Most Flattering Colors." To obtain a copy, send your request to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin.

Clever Air Mail Line Can Operate on Two Pulleys

BY CAPPY DICK

If you have a friend in the house next door, you can have fun operating a private air mail line on which to fly letters to each other.

Figure 3 shows how it is done. Two pulleys are required with a stout fishing cord tied together and strung between them. A cardboard box equipped with wings is the plane and is fastened to the lower cord. By pulling the upper string, the plane can be made to travel back and forth between the pulleys, carrying letters from one house to the other.

The two pulleys can be made of empty metal or plastic spoons which contained adhesive tape. Using two windowshade holders, fasten one pulley to a post on the porch of your house. Figure 1 shows how to do this. Fasten the other pulley to a post on the porch next door. A round stick will serve as an axle on which each spool will revolve. Thumbtacks pressed into the ends of the sticks will be satisfactory hubs to keep them from slipping out of place. Put the continuous string around the pulleys as in Figure 2.

After selecting a small cardboard box for the plane, taper the ends of it (Figure 3). This can be done by splitting the corners of the box, drawing the ends of the sides together and taping them. The bottom of the box must be trimmed to points, also. With crayons, draw windows on the cabin.

Glue a piece of cardboard to the open top side of the box for wings. Tie the ends of the plane to the bottom cord on the pulley. Place your mail inside the

Questions On Sewing

SEAMS TO ME
By Patricia Scott

Don't discard a suit because one small point makes it unfashionable. It may be possible to make it good as new.

Q. I have an expensive suit that has been worn very little. The shoulder pads are very large, as are the shoulders, and it looks old-fashioned. Can this be fixed? Mrs. P. DeB.

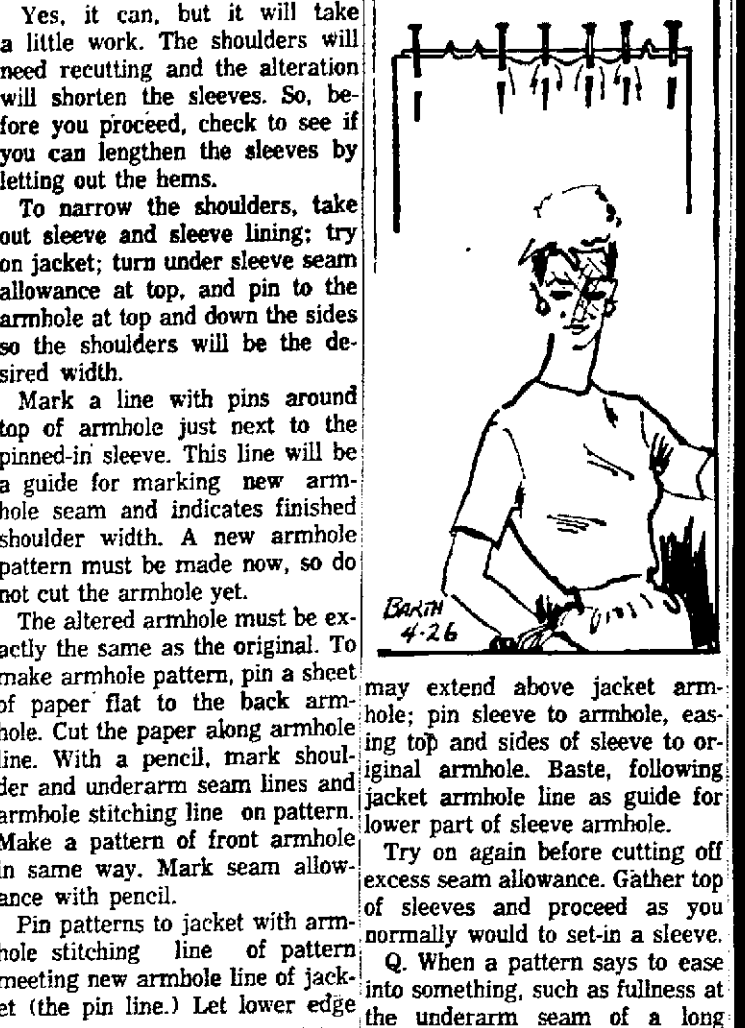

Yes, it can, but it will take a little work. The shoulders will need recutting and the alteration will shorten the sleeves. So, before you proceed, check to see if you can lengthen the sleeves by letting out the hems.

To narrow the shoulders, take out sleeve and sleeve lining; try on jacket; turn under sleeve seam allowance at top, and pin to the armhole at top and down the sides so the shoulders will be the desired width.

Mark a line with pins around top of armhole just next to the pinned-in sleeve. This line will be a guide for marking new armhole seam and indicates finished shoulder width. A new armhole pattern must be made now, so do not cut the armhole yet.

The altered armhole must be exactly the same as the original. To make armhole pattern, pin a sheet of paper flat to the back armhole. Cut the paper along armhole line. With a pencil, mark shoulder and underarm seam lines and armhole stitching line on pattern. Make a pattern of front armhole in same way. Mark seam allowance with pencil.

Pin patterns to jacket with armhole stitching line of pattern meeting new armhole line of jacket (the pin line.) Let lower edge may extend above jacket armhole; pin sleeve to armhole, easing top and sides of sleeve to original armhole. Baste, following jacket armhole line as guide for lower part of sleeve armhole.

Try on again before cutting off excess seam allowance. Gather top of sleeves and proceed as you normally would to set-in a sleeve.

Q. When a pattern says to ease into something, such as fullness at the underarm seam of a long sleeve or on a set-in sleeve I panic. I know what they mean by "ease," but all I get is tucks. Can you show me how to do it properly? Miss J. B.

A. If a small amount of fullness is to be eased, as on a long sleeve at the elbow, hold the longer side toward you. Match the ends of the seams and notches. Then insert pins at intervals, distributing the fullness evenly (see illustration). Baste and then steam out extra fullness. Then machine stitch. If there is a great deal of fullness as on a set-in sleeve, make two rows of running stitches along seam line. Draw up threads and distribute gathers evenly. Baste steam out excess fullness; then stitch.

Miss Scott is always glad to hear from her readers, and whenever possible will use their questions in her column, but because of the great volume of mail received daily, she cannot answer individual letters.

Shortage of Technicians Very Evident in Hospitals of Congo

Country's Sanitary Conditions Have Disintegrated Terribly

BY BRUCE LEE KENNEDY
LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — They brought a 14-year-old youngster, half-paralyzed, into native Katambo Hospital the other day. A cursory examination showed the child was suffering from polio.

Nine others were already in a ward in this institution, one of the two in Leopoldville taken over and operated by the Congolese last summer.

"What are you doing for these children?" Sister Eloardo, the medical sister superior was asked.

"All we can do is put them to bed and hope this is not the start of a polio epidemic because we have no vaccine and have only very limited technical facilities for treatment, and very few doctors, technicians and nurses."

Disintegrate Rapidly

Sanitary conditions in the Congo have disintegrated terribly—the Belgians used to spray for mosquitoes twice a week with helicopters, and three times a week during the rainy season. Additional spray tanks then roamed the streets, taking care of lawns and gardens to curb the rise of mosquitoes and the dreaded tsetse fly in the swamps. A little spraying was being done a few weeks ago but this too has vanished for lack of equipment and material.

Second of Series

The sister's worry could be a genuine one for only a small percentage of the sick people come to the hospital and then only as a last resort—whether because of fear, ignorance or superstition, I could not find out.

One-Story Buildings

Katambo is a cluster of many one-story buildings, started by the Belgians years ago as one of a variety of hospitals and dispensaries which they had spread throughout the six provinces of this now troubled land.

We visited many of them when they were in the interior in 1959.

is a basinette at the foot of each bed but as I walked around the wards, I didn't see a single baby in its basinette—they were all in bed with their mothers.

The student midwives wore short white uniforms, sandals, and blue bandanas. Both their uniform and the bandana were embroidered with EAL, for "Ecole Assistantes Accoucheurs." One girl's uniform was very soiled and the sister reported that it was almost impossible to teach them cleanliness.

I saw a one-day old baby whose mother died having her eighth child. She had been in labor for 24 hours when she arrived at the hospital. "We could have saved her," Sister Eloardo said, "if she had been brought to us earlier."

Various Illnesses

In one of the wards there were about 40 children with various illnesses. Many of their mothers were with them as well as their brothers and sisters who had no one to care for them at home.

Assistant Midwives

Sister Eloardo took us into classrooms where 29 students between 14 and 17 years of age were learning to be assistant midwives. They have to take them at that age as otherwise the girls would be married.

All babies are delivered by midwives here. A doctor is called to the maternity section only in grave cases.

Only about 25 per cent of the Congolese women come to the hospital to have their babies. To our eyes this one seemed quite unsanitary and of very low standard but it is far superior to giving birth to a baby in the bush.

Most maternity cases are kept in the hospital for a week — at least until the baby's cord is healed so as to prevent infection that could develop after they return to their primitive wattle huts.

After the birth in the maternity room, the mothers walk to the ward, taking their babies with them. There

Sterilizing Room

There were three Africans, who were dressed in white, in the sterilizing room and I peeked into two operating rooms where European surgeons were at work.

Two of them had red crosses on their uniforms.

In the laundry and sewing room men were doing the work. Sister Eloardo said the laundrymen had struck the week before. They wanted to work from 7 a.m. until 2 p.m. She said those hours were impossible as the clothes would not dry in that time and if left unironed, would mildew. There

Mrs. Emily Berben, right, principal of Woodlawn School, rural Appleton, was honored at a farewell potluck supper at the school Saturday. She was the subject of a "This Is Your Life" act and was given a present by Mrs. Harold Verstegen, program chairman.

Dryfoos Becomes Times Publisher

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1957 when Orvil E. Dryfoos became president of the New York Times, he succeeded his father-in-law, Arthur Hays Sulzberger, who told him:

"Remember that none of it would have happened that way except that I was sensible enough to marry the boss' daughter — and you were too."

Sulzberger had succeeded his own father-in-law, the late Adolph S. Ochs, as head of one of the nation's great daily newspapers. Tuesday, Sulzberger stepped down as published of the Times and once more Dryfoos became his successor.

Dryfoos, 48, concedes that his marriage July 8, 1941, to Sulzberger's very attractive brunette daughter, Marian, changed the course of his life.

$5 Million in G.I. Insurance in State

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Some $5 million in special dividends will be distributed to 103,000 Wisconsin holders of G.I. insurance between July 1 and Labor Day, regional manager J. P. Cullen of the Veterans Administration, said.

The special dividend is in addition to a $5 million regular dividend paid since January.

Synthetic Shubert

New Note in Electronic Brains, It Composes Music

WASHINGTON (AP)— Science hit a new note in electronic brains, one that composes music. A sort of synthetic Shubert.

Actually it's something of a copy cat. It first must be fed ideas of a human composer. Then it goes to work suggesting many and new variations. And no musician makes light of variations.

In its first big test, say its developers, it did a swell rewrite on the music of Stephen Foster.

Researchers Harry F. Olson and Herbert Belar of the Radio Corporation of America's research laboratories told about their ex-

Inter-Union Rivalry Dangerous to Union

BY VICTOR RIESEL

CLEVELAND — There's a civil war which should never be marked by a centennial. That's the war between the unions. And the nearer you wander toward our new inter-continental ballistic missile bases the louder — and more senseless — does the battle loom. And the more apparent it becomes that the biggest union of all, the U.S., is right in the middle.

Over at Lowry missile site near Denver, for example, the understandably secretive missile-making Martin Co. asked one man to tend to some work on the new installation. He walked on the field days in the past 17 months. There were some 20 strikes in the last 10 months, according to the authorities. But the base, with its effective killer Titans, has been practically finished. With heavy overtime pay, of course.

This meant that the construction work virtually is done. This also meant that the Martin Co., which has the responsibility of keeping the missiles in fighting condition could move in after the "brick and mortar" work is polished off. Part of the brick and mortar operation — keep in mind — is a complex power house on the field. What it controls, they tell me, is better kept classified. So let it go at that.

Sends In Men

When the Martin Co. began moving into Lowry Air Force base it sent in a few of its men. Since the firm has a contract with the United Automobile Workers, a few UAW men showed on the field.

Suddenly on April 5 there was a flash strike by the International Union of Operating Engineers. This pulled 450 men off the job. No one really knew why. The ex-orado Building and Construction Trades Council. These walkouts cost the field at least 15,000 man-

Thousands walked off. Strike. Stoppage. Pickets. Why? That was on Tuesday, April 18, and for a week the Pentagon, the Mediation Service and Sen. McClellan's ace investigators under Jerry Adlerman tried to discover why. In general they knew. Specifically, not all these intelligence people could get an answer from the strike leaders.

Situation Fuzzy

Everybody consulted with everybody else. The only word they could use that would fit the explanations was "fuzzy." This much we all knew:

Lowry field, just as some 20 other bases, has been hard hit by stoppages. There, near Denver, the strikes have been called by members of the Northern Colorado Building and Construction Trades Council. These walkouts cost the field at least 15,000 maner house and the "nests" for the was a technician who just had a council. They wanted no one mov- ing into their jurisdiction.

Soon 4,000 other workers, mem- bers of some 18 building and con- struction unions, quit work, too. Then word was flashed to the Warren missile base near Chey- enne, Wyo. Work slowed there, too.

This is the story of many a mis- sile base. The fight is between the craft unions such as the elec- trical workers and the big indus- trial type unions such as the autoworkers and the machinists. Re- cently the stoppages have in- creased from one every four days to one every two days. This, de- spite the national no-strike pledge taken by the parent Building and Construction Trades Council in Miami Beach last Feb. The na- tional leaders dispatched notice of the pledge. But many of the regional chiefs just ignored it and did not even call local meetings to pass word on to their mem- bers.

The little barons say they're go- ing to fight for the job security of their people. To the public it makes no difference what union man does the work, as long as it's done. The issue is the se- curity of all the people in the one big union, the U.S. Especially at this moment.

Is there no appeal to reason? (Copyright 1961)

Boyle Probes Depths, Heights of Success

BY HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Are you a success? There are many ways to measure success, but the chances are that you've done pretty well in life—at least in the eyes of your neighbors—if:
You have been living at a rate of only $1,000 a year over your income for the last five years, and your credit is still good.
Your lawn is the only one on the block without crab grass.
And the boss, instead of pushing a buzzer when he wants you, strolls out to your desk to ask advice.
The barber can tell you in complete honesty, "Nope, it isn't getting any thinner on top."

None of your children has been sent to reform school.
All your brothers-in-law have steady jobs.
You can play pool instead of golf and still keep your standing in the community.
Your home has one more bathroom than it does bedrooms — the garage has a door that opens automatically.
Both the minister and the postman call you by your first name, but the bank president addresses you as "mister" with a note of respect.
The family dog is too old to have any more pups, and the family cat is still too young to have kittens.

Your wife won't let you buy her a fur coat for fear it would make her look too plump.
She trusts you absolutely—but still gets a bit upset if you talk more than 10 minutes to a strange blonde at a party.
Congratulations?
A letter arrives from the Internal Revenue Service, and when you fearfully open it you find inside a message congratulating you on the detailed accuracy of your last income tax return.
You are able to take martinis or leave them alone, and you prove it—by letting them alone.
In any given year your church more than your medical costs. $5 million student loan fund through use of continuing cash balances in the conservation, highway and general funds was proposed by Gov. Gaylord Nelson.

The doctor envies you because he's on a diet—and you can still eat anything you want to.
You don't have to worry about your job at the office. Nobody else wants it.
You can still bend over—knees stiff—and touch the ground 15 times without puffing or bragging, on some days.
You are reconciled to the fact the world can endure without $50,000 to guarantee the three special annual appropriations of $50,000 to guarantee the three principal or interest.

Appleton Girl Wins Essay Prize

Miss Ruth J. Weber, 725 E. Brewster St., is national prize winner of the Law Day essay contest sponsored by National Association of Women Lawyers.

For her essay on "What Law Day Means to Me," the Valparaiso University School of Law student will receive a 12-volume set of "American Jurisprudence Proof of Facts." Prizes will be presented at a luncheon in Los Angeles Sunday.

The law students' essay contest was one of six instituted by National Association of Women Lawyers in connection with the observance of Law Day May 1. Others were school girls' essay, slogan, court motto, poster and song contests.

Miss Weber, daughter of Mr. "The Rule of Law is effective when government acts as its servant . . . Because the Government of the United States is a tool and not a cudgel, we celebrate Law Day."

Miss Weber has been named vice-president of the Student Bar Association at Valparaiso for a one-year term beginning in September.

Savory Sauce Adds Flavor to Green Beans

Vegetables, so necessary for a balanced diet, often can be made more palatable with the addition of a savory sauce.

Here is a quick and easy Mustard Sauce that goes well with green beans, canned or fresh. Served with a richly browned meat and perhaps broiled tomato halves, a colorful main course results. Round out such a meal with a green salad, crisp bread sticks, a warm fruit dessert and beverage.

Mustard Sauce
 1-pound can green beans
 2 tablespoons butter
 2 tablespoons flour
 2 tablespoons dry mustard
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon sugar
 2 drops Tabasco sauce
 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 1 cup milk
 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 Thoroughly drain canned beans. Melt butter in saucepan. Blend in flour, dry mustard, salt, sugar, Tabasco and Worcestershire sauces. Slowly add cup of milk, stirring constantly. Add lemon juice and drained beans. Simmer for about four minutes until heated through.

East Indian Touch

Crab Dip, Cranberry-Apple Pie 2 Outstanding Recipes

BY FRANK KOHLER

A fine beginning and ending for a delicious meal are presented this week. Hot Crab Dip, elegant with potato chips at cocktail time, is from Robert R. Hum, North Canton, Ohio. This is a marvelous thing to do right in the chafing dish, where it may be kept suitably warm.

Hot Crab Dip
 1 can crabmeat.
 1 package (3-ounces) cream cheese.

 1 teaspoon prepared mustard.
 1 teaspoon powdered sugar.
 Dash of salt.
 2 tablespoons sauteur or light sherry wine.
 Carefully pick over the crabmeat, removing any cartilage. Melt cheese over hot water, stir in crabmeat and next five items. When well blended, add the wine. Serve hot as a dip.
 Favorite Pie Crust is from Mrs. H. R. Willer, Newark, N.J. This is especially good for juicy fruit pies, she says. There is enough pastry in this recipe to make a large and a small pie, or two medium ones.
 Favorite Pie Crust
 3 cups sifted flour.

 1 teaspoon salt.
 1/2 cup sugar.
 1/2 cup shortening.
 2 eggs, slightly beaten.
 1/2 cup milk or juice.
 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mix all well together, then lightly pat into the pan. The crust should not be more than 1/4-inch thick. "I use a round glass dish 10 inches in diameter and two inches high," and criss-cross strips of pastry over the top of the fruit. "A light dusting of sugar on top is interesting, and sometimes I mix this sugar with a little orange juice or grated rind."

Cranberry-Apple is an excellent filling for the above crust, for instance. It needs a double crust for a 10-inch pie. This recipe is really what you might call interstate! It won a first prize in Massachusetts in 1957, advised Mrs. Betty E. Cookson. She wrote from "snowed-in Maine," temperature 22 below at the time, sending the recipe to our Phoenix Arizona Republic chapter. For the filling:

Cranberry-Apple Pie
 1 cup ground cranberries.
 1 cup ground apple.
 Rind and juice of 1 small orange.
 1 cup sugar.
 3 tablespoons cornstarch.
 1/2 teaspoon salt.
 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon.
 3/4 teaspoon mace.
 1 teaspoon vanilla.
 Combine first three items and mix well. In a saucepan, mix sugar and next four items, then slowly stir in the boiling water and cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is smooth and thickened. Remove from heat. Stir in the fruit mixture, then the vanilla.
 Turn into the lined pie pan, top with pastry, cut steam vents, and bake at 425 degrees for 30 minutes, or until the top is a rich, golden brown. Serve this one with fine, nippy cheese, of course.

Dried Figs Rich Source Of Energy

Not only is the California Dried Fig a beautiful food, it's also an extremely economical and rich source of energy and nutrition.

Its most outstanding quality is its high content of easily digested, quickly assimilated natural fruit sugar. In addition, figs offer a high content of calcium, phosphorus and iron, important body-builders.

Cauliflower-Fig Toss
 1 cup sliced dried figs
 1 small head cauliflower, thinly sliced
 2 unpeeled red apples, diced
 1/2 cup chopped watercress
 2 small green onions, chopped
 French dressing
 In salad bowl, combine figs, cauliflower, apples, watercress and onions. Toss with French dressing. Makes six servings.

Honeyed Fig Dessert
 2 eggs
 1/2 cup honey
 1/2 cup sifted flour
 1/4 teaspoon almond flavoring
 1 teaspoon baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup bran
 1 cup chopped figs
 1/2 cup chopped nuts
 Beat eggs until thick, gradually adding honey and almond flavoring. Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Stir in bran, figs, and nuts. Add to first mixture and beat well. Spread in greased 9-inch square pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes. Cut into squares. Sprinkle with powdered sugar or serve with whipped cream. Makes nine servings.

Gourmet Compote
 10 dried figs, cooked and halved
 2 oranges, peeled and sectioned
 1 cup canned pineapple chunks, drained
 1/4 cup orange juice
 1/4 cup liqueur Cointreau
 Combine figs, oranges and pineapple in glass bowl. Pour orange juice and Cointreau over fruits. Chill several hours. Makes five servings.

Supermarket Idea Thrives in Europe

Supermarkets multiply in Europe. Federal statisticians report self-service food stores outside U.S. now number 36,294 in 13 countries, up from 164 in 1948. West Germany leads with 17,132, nearly 12 per cent of all food stores in that country. German sales will double in the next 10 years.

Try a Molded Salad of Cherries and oranges with hearty sandwiches for Sunday night supper. It will soon become a weekend stand-by.

Sunday Night Supper

Salad Mold Combines Orange Slices, Cherries

BY EDITH M. BARBER

Even in cold weather, we enjoy a salad-sandwich supper after the kind of hot midday dinner which is still often served on Sunday.

Nothing is more attractive in appearance or appealing in contrasting texture than a sliced oranges combined with pitted dark red canned cherries.

You may like to accompany this with small molds of the e Bing cherries. Small balls of cream cheese rolled in chopped nuts, add to the satisfaction of a salad platter. As a garnish, you may like to use wedges of iceberg lettuce which is particularly good just now. For a special occasion, Young people of the family are fond of molded salads, which seem heartier than plain fruit.

Small sandwiches, filled with sliced meat or with an egg salad, go especially well with a molded salad. Of course, there is no reason why the sandwiches should not be man-sized.

Cherry Salad Platte
 1 can (1 pound) pitted dark sweet cherries
 1 cup hot water
 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
 8 ounces cream cheese, softened
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
 1-3 cup ground walnuts
 4 medium oranges, peeled and sliced
 1 medium head lettuce, quartered
 Drain cherries, reserving syrup. Pour hot water over gelatin and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in cherry syrup. Pour into four individual molds and chill until firm. Combine cream cheese and nutmeg. Shape into small balls and roll in ground walnuts. Unmold cherry gelatin and arrange with orange slices, drained cherries, lettuce quarters, and cheese balls on platter.

Cheese Balls
 2 cups grated cheese
 4 teaspoons flour
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon thyme
 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
 Dash Tabasco
 Fine, dry crumbs
 Mix grated cheese with flour, salt and thyme. Fold into stiffly beaten eggs and dash Tabasco. Blend well. Form into small balls and roll in crumbs. Fry in deep fat at 375 degrees until golden brown. Recipe makes about 20 small balls.

Prune Tarts
 Pit cooked prunes, cut in small pieces and fold into whipped cream or soft custard. Use as filling for baked tart shells.

French Military Men Don't Face the Facts

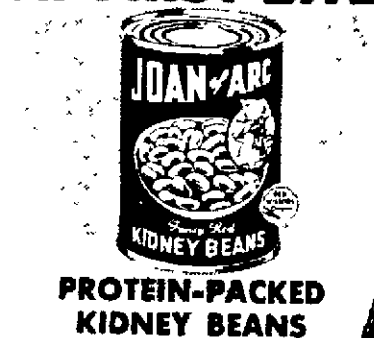

Soldiers Have Been at War So Long They've Lost Touch With Home Front

BY JOSEPH ALSOP
PARIS — It is easy enough to give a superficially rational explanation of the terrible, irrational tragedy which has now overtaken France. The explanation lies in the recent formation of the French army, and especially in the formation of the parachute and Foreign Legion regiments which were the prime movers of the coup d'etat in Algeria.

In the long, grim, fruitless war in Indochina, and again in the fighting in Algeria, and yet again during the various Algerian crises, this reporter has spent a fair amount of time with French soldiers of the sort who have now rebelled against their own government.

Man for man, they are probably the best foot soldiers in the

Dr. Samuel Johnson's response to the unfortunate man who approached him with the remark, "Mr. Smith, I believe." The great doctor indignantly replied, "Sir, if you can believe that, you can believe anything."

Undoubtedly Challe and his co-plotters believed that they might well secure American support by "playing the anti-Communist card," to use their common phrase. Undoubtedly, they also believed that the American government had lost patience with Gen. de Gaulle because of his hostility to NATO. Undoubtedly, they made a whole series of other fantastic political miscalculations. Thus genuine patriotism, and moral displacement, and the warped views of war-blinkered eyes have all combined to produce a great tragedy. Listening to Gen. de Gaulle's speech to the nation the other night was precisely like hearing a personage from a drama of Aeschylus's heart-rendingly reciting his part in real life.

Not Real Life

It is hard to believe that this is real life. As this is written, a parachute assault on the capital will or will not be made. The answer to that question will probably be known before these words see print. But many days are likely to go by, even if there is no assault on Paris or on Tunis, before it is known whether Gen. de Gaulle possesses levers or can devise levers strong enough to restore his control of the army in Algeria. And even if the rebellion so narrow, even the ablest of them are capable of almost incredible mistakes about the real world outside the war which has become their world.

Gen. Challe, for example, is not only the real leader of the rebellion. He is also a soldier of exceptional capacity, who made a brilliant record when Gen. de Gaulle named him to the chief command in Algeria in 1958.

Has Wrong View

Yet not long ago, when discussing some articles which he admired by an itinerant American reporter whom he knew, the same Gen. Challe actually offered the following explanation. This reporter, he said, had a "net-work" of over a hundred "agents," also itinerant, whom he sent on ahead of him to do the work of gathering information. This, concluded Gen. Challe, was why the reporter was worth reading when on the road.

The committee recommended that an elective be offered in the second year because of students' individual interests and job prospects, and that the secretarial program be expanded to two years.

The committee found AVS physical facilities adequate, neat and businesslike. Lighting is excellent and blackboards and bulletin boards well used, it reported. Watch for 'Earn' At Home' Racket

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Warning to the millions of you who today are eagerly looking for work you can do at home to earn money you need:

Any ad you read in the help wanted columns which asks you to send money to get "instructions" or "information" on the offer is almost surely a racket.

In bluntest words, the one characteristic which virtually every swindle in the earn-money-at-home field has in common is a requirement that you, the prospective victim, buy something from the advertiser — and that goes for information or instructions or merchandise or literature or services.

If you recognize this you have a fighting chance to avoid just about the lowest form of racketeer there is — the crook who defrauds the shut-in, the disabled, and the widow living on a subsistence pension, the housewife desperately trying to add to the family income.

Consistent Racket
"The work-at-home racket is among the most constant of all rackets," emphasizes the Assn. of Better Business Bureau's president, Victor H. Nyborg. "Hard as we try to control it, it continues because its appeal is so constant."

The number of victims of these swindlers will run into the millions this year alone. The individual loss won't be so big — "most of these victims are whipped and haven't much to lose" — but the racketeers' take is estimated at an annual half-billion-plus.

Surely, you've seen the crooks' ads. They're so tricky they get by the most cautious newspapers and they dot the mass-circulation pulp magazine columns. Here's a run-down of the most typical come-ons.

Typical Ads Exposed
Typical ad: Address and mail: Be on guard too against such postcards at home. You can make other earmarks of work-at-home over $50 a week. Send $1 for information and instructions.

Racket: You send the $1, get testimonials which hide the identity back a booklet explaining that you're to address cards advertising, say, nameplates at $1.98 each. If you continue you send another $5 for 250 unstamped postcards which you must send to your own list with stamps you buy. The chances of your earning money are next to zero. You lose instead, the promoter gets your cash.

Big Earnings Promised
Typical ad: $100 monthly for doing assembly work at home.

Racket: You must buy the instructions and materials for the items you'll assemble at home — say, costume jewelry or bow ties or dog tags. Then you have to find your own buyers — which requirement that you, the prospective victim, buy something from the advertiser — and that goes for information or instructions or merchandise or literature or services.

Typical ad: We pay you up to $5 a dozen for initials or monograms, varying according to styles of initials worked on. You should easily finish 30 dozen a week. Racket: You buy the instructions and materials to make the initials (or aprons or artificial flowers or novelties, etc., etc.) and then, no matter how superb and skilled your workmanship, it never comes up to the "standards" of the promoter so you never get a penny from him. Everything you send in is rejected.

Typical ad: Women who would like to work spare time at home. We have a tremendous backlog of unfilled orders for hand-knitted garments; easy work, very good times because its appeal is so constant.

Don't Buy Equipment
Racket: You have to buy the equipment and the instructions to make the items (sewing machines, knitting machines, etc.). The demand for your work doesn't exist; what you turn out is never acceptable to the promoter. You simply bought an expensive machine at an inflated price.

I could go on with dozens of other typical ads but the points, I hope, are clear. Remember that the one common denominator in the swindles is asking you to send money just to find out what the offer is.

Be on guard too against such postcards at home. You can make other earmarks of work-at-home over $50 a week. Send $1 for information and instructions.

College Students To Present Play

As a facet of its program to stimulate interest in the theater and creative dramas among children, Lawrence College Theatre will present a one-act play for elementary school youngsters this week and next at four Appleton public schools.

"The Land of the Jesters," by Pamela Prince Walker was given at 3 p.m. today at Franklin School, Friday at Lincoln, May 4 at Richmond and May 5 at Morgan.

Miss Gretchen Affeldt, Kasson, Minn., is student director of the play. A member of the play directing class at Lawrence, Miss Affeldt is a senior drama major under Prof. F. Theodore Cloak, head of the college's theater and drama department.

School principals are arranging the seating of students from all Appleton schools at the four locations.

Study Fighting After Bomb Drops

BY JAMES E. COOK

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Maxwell E. Rich, who was a salesman long before he became a major general, is in the midst of one of his hardest merchandizing jobs. To his mind, it's the most vital of all.

Rich, adjutant general of Utah, calls his product "total defense." "When they drop the bomb," he explains, "it will be hard to tell the difference between civil defense and any other kind."

The Adjutants General Association of the United States has named Rich chairman of a committee to determine how the National Guard can make the most of its abilities as a survival, recovery and fighting force in the event of nuclear war. He hopes to present a complete report by next spring.

The association then will try to sell the program to military and congressional leaders.

Not Enough Ammunition
"If a well-trained rifle squad came through Emigration Canyon right now, we wouldn't have enough small arms ammunition for more than a three-hour fight," says Rich.

The National Guard is issued enough 30-caliber ammunition only to keep its members qualified with small arms, and to meet local emergencies. There probably isn't a round of artillery ammunition within 500 miles.

This is only one of the problems of adjutants general, haunted by the possibility that an enemy rifle squad just might someday march through Emigration Canyon or its equivalent.

Rich and his organization disagree sharply with the philosophy that an all-out nuclear attack will destroy both the attacked and the attacker. They feel that a majority of Americans — and thus a majority of National Guardsmen — would survive even the most severe attack.

Fight on Home Ground
"We are not willing to concede that the United States could be brought to its knees with one fell blow," Rich says. "America is not going to surrender in its bomb shelters."

"Certainly we feel that with units in 2,500 communities, it will be impossible to completely knock out our organization."

Rich says that should militiamen find themselves fighting on home ground for the first time since the war of 1812, they will at least have the compensation of being familiar with that ground. His own deep roots in Utah illustrate his point.

He is the second Maj. Gen. Rich to be placed in charge of Utah's defenses since the Utah militia was born as the Mormons' Nauvoo Legion. His great-grandfather, Maj. Gen. Charles C. Rich, was one of Brigham Young's apostles. Among other distinctions, the great-grandfather had six wives and 52 children.

The current Gen. Rich, now 47, has been a National Guardsman for 28 years, and adjutant general since 1953.

Catch Supplies
Dispersal is one of the key selling points for the Guard as a total defense force. For 300 years, the militia has grown up in rough proportion to America's population.

Each governor is commander in Chief of the National Guard of his state, until it is federalized. Should the chain of command from the Pentagon be snapped, a new chain of command would begin in the office of each governor.

Rich has divided big, sparsely populated Utah into seven regions, each the command area of a Guard battalion. His committee will recommend that supplies not only be cached in each state, but distributed strategically to commands within each state.

"With things like ammunition and gasoline, we will have to

Rich says, "because when the bomb drops, we won't have a chance to get them here."

Emergency Plan

The other problems are communications—now being worked out in Utah—and transportation, which will require federal help.

"We should be geared for the worst thing that could happen," Rich contends, "in which case every state would be in the same boat. You could not count on help from other states or the Red Cross."

Ending his second term as president of Adjutants General Association last May, Rich summarized the goal of his committee—to provide a plan so that "in an emergency we will not be waiting for orders from some agency in Washington before we begin to attack—for orders might never come."

Lawrence Says

Electrical Firms Didn't Plead 'Fifth'

Too Bad They Were Not Red Followers, Columnist Speculates

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Maybe it's unfortunate the executives of those electrical companies aren't Communist sympathizers or party members — for, if they were, they probably would have won the support of many of the so-called "liberals" and might not have been subjected to the current "trial by publicity."

There might even have been demonstrations in their behalf and a demand for the "abolition" of the subcommittee of the Senate judiciary committee which is at present conducting the hearings.

For, basically, it might have been argued the electrical executives exercised only their right of "freedom of assembly" or "freedom of association" or "freedom of speech," and merely got together to indulge in "freedom of conversation."

They Testified
It will be noted that the witnesses from the electrical business who have testified thus far before Sen. Kefauver's committee didn't take refuge in the Fifth Amendment. Nor did they condemn the committee for engaging in "exposure for exposure's sake."

Not long ago the American Civil Liberties Union issued a fervent statement, signed by 250 college professors, denouncing a congressional committee for trying to substitute its investigations for trials and law enforcement proceedings. The statement said:

"Not only teachers, but all Americans, we insist, must be free from trial by publicity—from enforcement or trial agency. What Mr. Justice Black has called 'exposure, obloquy and public scorn.' We would be the first to concede that teachers have no greater rights than other citizens and companies will get some — just as they have no lesser rights."

Strangely Silent

But, strangely enough, hardly a voice has since been lifted in support of the men in the electrical business who are being made the object of considerable publicity through the Senate committee's public investigations.

Unpleasant, however, though it may be to the electrical companies' executives who are testifying about the meetings at which prices were allegedly fixed, it is in the public interest for Congress to get all the facts from every individual who has any knowledge of the price-fixing process. The purpose of this, of course, is to learn how to write corrective legislation for the future.

For, unhappily, the anti-trust laws are by no means clear. Nor are the decisions in the court cases that have been tried over a long period of years models of simplicity. Senators this week asked some of the witnesses, for instance, if they knew they were violating anti-trust laws, and one of the executives replied:

"It had been so common and had gone on for so many years that we lost sight of that."

Question Fuzzy

But the public gets from this the impression that violations were always willful, when actually there is little doubt that the fuzziness of the whole anti-trust question has resulted in all sorts of individual interpretations as to where legality begins or ends.

Thus, for example, is any meeting between businessmen to discuss industrial costs, such as wage rates and uniform charges in the whole employment field, illegal? If so, many a conference of the managements of several competing companies—induced by national labor unions—might possibly be construed as part of a conspiracy to fix sales prices.

The surrounding factors are proper subjects for examination by the Department of Justice in its investigation, and they certainly should be, as Chief Justice Warren said in the Watkins case June 17, 1957, a congressional committee has certain limitations. He wrote in behalf of the majority of the court:

Not Trial Agency

"Nor is the Congress a law enforcement or trial agency. These are functions of the executive and judicial departments of government."

Unquestionably some individual and companies will get some unfavorable publicity, but the underlying purpose of a congressional committee is to find out what happened so that new legislation or amendments to existing laws may be enacted. Painful as it may be to the persons who are pilloried in public, this is the best way Congress can learn what happens when ambiguously phrased laws and even more perplexing phrases of court decisions are proclaimed as the "law of the land."

Only by thorough inquiry can the facts of anti-trust and monopoly be fully exposed. The same holds true of laws affecting national security, subversion or infiltration. Whatever mistakes the electrical companies' executives may have made, they didn't question the right of the committee to investigate, and they certainly didn't take the Fifth Amendment or the First Amendment. Nor did they instigate college professors to demand the "abolition" of the committee. Nor did they encourage student demonstrations throughout the country. They just took it on the chin. And what they did may turn out to be in the interest of a clarification and perhaps strengthening of the anti-trust laws, especially in the uncertain field of price-fixing.

NBA Is Threatening Legal Reprisals

Conley Included in List of 8 Players Drafted by Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Basketball Association Wednesday threatened legal reprisals against the new American Basketball League as the infant Chicago entry drafted eight NBA veterans.

Maurice Podoloff, NBA president, commenting on the jump of Ken Sears from the NBA's New York Knickerbockers to the ABL's San Francisco Comets, asserted: "Sears, and any other player who violates an NBA contract, will be greeted by appropriate legal action by the affected club and with whole support of the league."

The NBA's new Chicago team, starting competition next season, announced selection of one player each from a pool of NBA players. Topping the list was 6-8 Gene Conley of the champion Boston Celtics, who also doubles as a star pitcher for the Red Sox. At Boston, Conley said he would have to "think over a few things" before deciding on joining the Chicago cage team.

Others selected by the Chicago club included: 6-7 Andy Johnson of the Philadelphia Warriors; 6-7 Dave Piontek of the St. Louis Hawks; 6-9 Archie Dees of the Detroit Pistons; 6-6 Bernie Cable of the Syracuse Nats; 6-6 Ralph Budd of the New York Knickerbockers; 6-3 Bob Leonard of the Los Angeles Lakers; and 6-1 Ralph Davis of the Cincinnati Royals.

The Chicago club, coached by former Minneapolis Laker great Jim Pollard, paid $200,000 to the league for the chance to pick one of four unprotected players submitted by each NBA club.

Chicago also announced that seven of 12 drafted collegiate stars of last season had been signed by the club. Only name given, however, was DePaul's 5-9 Howie Carl.

Regarding other jumping of NBA performers to the ABL, Podoloff said there was no proof of reported signing of the Royals' Mike Farmer by San Francisco. Podoloff also said the Celtics' Sharman was given permission to become general manager of the Ken Sears from the NBA's Los Angeles Jets.

"However, if Sharman just tries to toss a ball," said Podoloff, "he'll be in a lot of trouble, like any other players who are pirated."

Podoloff also said the Celtics' Sharman was given permission to become general manager of the Ken Sears from the NBA's Los Angeles Jets.

Challenge System Enlivens Illinois Spring Grid Drills

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—A terfere with practice during the challenge system is enlivening season.

"So far, it has been good for squad morale," said head coach Harry Craft, who is the present director of the Cubs, replacing Vede Himsel who served as head coach the first two weeks.

Several other were rated equal, and now is in San Antonio assisting another of the Cubs' coaches, Rip Collins.

Other coaches are Elvin Tappe from Oakland, Calif., has chal- and Goldie Holt, on the staff; Charley Grimm, roaming the farm system, and Verlon Walker and Fred Martin, with Stan Yukevich.

Chicago (AP)—Dick Cole, former infielder for the St. Louis Cardinals, Pittsburgh Pirates and Milwaukee Braves, has been named the 10th coach for the managerless Chicago Cubs.

St. Mary '9' Drops Third Straight Tilt

Zephyrs Get Only Four Hits Off Glenn Miller of Oshkosh, Lose, 6-2

MENASHA — St. Mary dropped its third straight game of the season Wednesday afternoon when they could gather only four hits in losing to Oshkosh, 6-2, at Sixth Street park.

Glenn Miller held the Zephyrs bats down and struck out 10 while walking three. Phil Keller and Ron Pyszora shared mound duties for St. Mary.

Keller allowed the five hits, struck out four, but walked seven. Pyszora struck out one and walked one in his one-inning performance.

Twice in Third Oshkosh scored twice in the third with the help of four walks and added to their margin with one in the fifth and three in the sixth.

St. Mary scored their only markers in the bottom half of the final frame. Paul Meier had two hits and Bill Starr and Paul Snyder accounted for the other two. The Zephyr Jayvees were to meet Oshkosh at Oshkosh today.

Yankees Halt Tiger Streak

opening day, came from behind after trailing 6-0 going into the second inning against Yank starter Whitey Ford, but then blew an 11-8 lead. Tony Kubek and Roger Maris each hit their first home runs of the season for the Yanks while Rocky Colavito smacked his third for the Tigers. Reliever Luis Arroyo won his first with two hitless innings.

Cleveland came from behind with three unearned runs on Jim Gentile's fourth-inning throwing error at Baltimore. Winning reliever Barry Latman, Bob Allen and Frank Funk then blanked the Birds on one hit over the last six frames. Bill Fisher (0-2) was the loser.

Washington right-hander Tom Sturdivant won his first as a starting pitcher, but needed Dave Sisler's saving relief in the eighth at Boston. Winless Bill Monbouquette lost his third.

NOTES and NOTIONS

Baseball's impatience about getting its season started early is understandable. But its practice of fighting the weatherman (and his low-pressure cells) each April is hardly realistic. Once again this spring, the number of postponements—on the major and minor league levels—almost equals the number of games played. With at least 10 of the 18 major league clubs operating north of the Mason-Dixon line, this business of scheduling openers for April 10-11 is for the birds (and even our feathered pals don't try to rush the season). As long as these early postponements have to be made up as parts of doubleheaders anyway, why not start a week or two later and set up a few "natural" doubleheaders? Many of the benefits of spring training go up in smoke while players lounge around in northern hotel lobbies. And, how about that assemblage of 1,900 that was "swallowed up" in cavernous Yankee stadium the first week? The Three-I league, too, would do well to wait an additional week before opening. Since practically all of the league's games are played at night, the weather problem is even more acute. But, then baseball men are ever the optimists—and I don't look for a single change in season—opening policies, come 1962.

Hortonville's Dennis Sommers has made the jump to Double A level baseball—with Victoria of the Texas League. The young San Francisco Giant system catcher will be handling such 1960 Fox Cities hurlers as Dick Hunt, Buster Narum and Elliott Coleman. Sommers homered in one of his early appearances for Victoria.

Dates for some of the Fox Cities area's top 1961 golf tournaments have been set. The Adler Brau tourney at Reid Municipal is slated June 3 and 4. Qualifying for Appleton's city tournament takes place July 15-16. The Northeastern Wisconsin open will be played at North Shore Aug. 28-30. The NEWGA's lead-off event is the annual meeting and clinic May 22 at Butte des Morts. The golf season is off to an earlier start because there has been no repetition of last year's flooding.

The 3-I League made a clean sweep in gaining the banquet-circuit services of Detroit's famed 1-2 pitching punch of the 1940s: Hal Newhouser and "Dizzy" Trout. Newhouser headlined the Foxes' banquet last Sunday night, and Trout will speak at the Lincoln Chiefs' welcome luncheon Friday.

Newhouser received only $400 for signing a professional contract with the Tiger organization. Dizzy Dean got only $7,500 for winning 30 games for St. Louis in 1934. How the price of baseball talent has skyrocketed.

Johnny Vander Meer, who managed Topeka in the 3-I league in 1959 and '60, requested and got a demotion for '61. The double no-hit hurler is managing the Tampa Club in the Class D Florida State League so he spend more time home (in Tampa).

Ernie Banks has led the Chicago Cubs in both home runs and runs batted in for six straight years.

Jays Nudge Ghosts In Extra Frame, 3-2

MENASHA — The Menasha Bluejays won their second straight Mid-Eastern Conference game of the season Wednesday afternoon when John Matowitz drove home Bill Neubauer in the last half of the eighth inning (first extra inning) to give the Jays a 3-2 decision over the Kaukauna Galloping Ghosts.

The win keeps Menasha tied with Neenah for the conference lead and the Jays now have a 3-1 overall record under their new coach, Clem Massey.

The two teams had battled for seven frames before Neubauer reached second base on an error to start the eighth. He advanced to third on Tom Zeleske's ground out and after Bob Shukoski was passed intentionally, Matowitz sent Neubauer home with a single to right.

Both teams scored single runs in the third and fourth innings. They tallied in the third on a

Dave Kringle upset the strategy by lofting a long fly to right and Rennebohm tagged up at third and scored after the catch. Minton tagged at second and went to third, arriving well before the throw.

Third Victory
Bill Prange came on in relief, with none out and runners on first and second in the fifth inning, and won his third victory of the season.

Leigh Wachel went the route for Kaukauna and allowed only five hits. The Kaukauna senior struck out 10 and walked two.

Clutch Homer Gives Elston Win for Fourth Time in '61

CHICAGO (AP) — One of the main actors in the Chicago Cubs current cliff-hanging serial is Don Zimmer, chunky team captain and holler guy at second base.

The 30-year-old Zimmer, who played four positions for the Cubs last year after being obtained in the spring from the Los Angeles Dodgers, slammed a 3-2 pitch in the 10th inning Wednesday over the left field bleacher screen.

The homer gave the Cubs a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds, Saturday in the 11th inning at Philadelphia to wrap up a triumph over the Phillies.

Two other of the Cubs' victories in a 6-6 season record also came pitched in a week, is to face Ray from clutch last inning homers.

Four Games
In all four cliff-hanging games, Don Elston was the winner. Wednesday for the third straight game came on in the 10th after Glen Hobbie was lifted for a pinch hit.ter and ran his scoreless innings for the season to 11-2-3. The White Sox were idle Wednesday for the third agstribt. Games were washed out the two previous days and Wednesday was an off-day. They hope to re-aturn to action Thursday night when they launch a seven-day, three-city tour in Kansas City. Early Wynn (1-0), who hasn't in a 6-6 season record also came pitched in a week, is to face Ray from clutch last inning homers. Herbert (1-0).

Crandall Still Ailing;
Braves May Get Help

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Milwaukee may be brought back with the Braves if Crandall can not get back into action soon.

Torre was impressive in spring training with the Braves before he was sent to their farm club. This despite the fact that he had only one year of Class C baseball—with Eau Claire in the Northern League. He hit .344 and got 14 homers with Eau Claire in 1960. He is a brother of Frank Torre, also the property of the Braves.

Crandall, who has been out of the Milwaukee lineup for a week, said Wednesday night that "nobody seems to know what is wrong."

"The doctor I consulted in Pittsburgh said it was some kind of muscle spasm." I honestly don't know whether it is a cold. It must be something new."

Charlie Lau has been doing an acceptable job as Crandall's replacement but Milwaukee officials may have to call up another catcher from one of their farm clubs if Crandall is not able to get back into action soon.

Hennessey Show on CBS To Serve as Reunion

Jackie Cooper, Mickey Rooney to Act Together for First Time in 25 Years

BY JINGO
With the summer fast approaching, the order of the day all over the country is to have committees of alumni make plans for reunions. The magic numbers are usually divisible by five—more often would be too much, maybe.

Anyone who has taken in a reunion knows how fast the years go by. It seems as though, say, 25 years were just so many minutes.

On May 8, Channel 2 viewers will see a reunion that will make them sure 25 years are just an illusion. The meeting will be on the "Hennessey" show.

Reunited will be Jackie Cooper and Mickey Rooney. They haven't played together since 1936 when they appeared in the film, "The Devil Is a Sissy."

The show will have Mickey play a bent-out-of-shape goblin in jail for disturbing the peace with a saxophone. Of course, Jackie is the good, graying doctor.

Cooper pointed out a difference. In the two collaborations, in 1936, Mickey's outrageous ad-libbing used to get Jackie in trouble with the director for laughing. This time Jackie is the director and no one was there to get angry at the outbursts.

Humility seems to be a one-way street for Arthur Godfrey, who saw the lack of it in most of the people he sacked through the years. The bit part Arthur had in "Candid Camera" ranked the great man and he spat with the creator of the program, Allen Funt. This time Arthur had to back down and he did, right out of the show. Replacing him will be Bill Cullen in the fall. Cullen, who is best known for his panel and quiz show enthusiasm, knows how to handle a bit part—not out of humility but experience.

May 6 all turf fans will turn their eyes toward Louisville, Ky., and Churchill Downs. For most this will be merely figurative since the 87th running of the Kentucky Derby will be watched by the vast majority on CBS-TV. The usual team of Bryan Field and Chris Schenkel will provide the audio portion of the show. The rest of the triple crown will be aired on CBS on May 20 and June 3. The advantage of TV will be especially apparent: no crowds, no discomfort—and—no pari mutual windows.

Circle Theater which has probed dramatically many of man's ills, spiritual and physical, will turn to one of the most complicated when it presents "Moment of Panic" on May 10 on CBS. The show will explore what makes a driver hit and run.

Walt Disney planned "Professor" as an encore for Fred MacMurray's "Shaggy Dog," but Walt "flubbed" his plans. The current animated cartoon made with three-dimensional actors can stand on its own and, perhaps, Walt will have to figure an encore for it.

Disney's film, of course, employs real actors and was filmed on locations much the same as other pictures, but what his four-man, special effects crew can do makes the film reasonable only when considered as a cartoon.

MacMurray is the star playing the title role and is the center and perpetrator of the action. Nancy Olson is a remarkably patient victim of his absent-mindedness who wins out in the end. Keenan Wynn is the heavy who gets it good in the end.

Putting the storyline down on paper would be like tearing a ratle apart to examine the noise. "Absent-Minded Professor" is not meant to be analyzed, just enjoyed. And who would believe a description of a flubbed basketball game or chase?

And, you adults, don't get the idea this is merely a film for kids, you'll miss something quite wonderful if you do.

More Londoners Than Muscovites May See May Day Parade

MOSCOW (AP)—Moscow's May Day parade is going to be televised direct to London for the first time this year, but it will be difficult for Muscovites to see it.

The trade ministry announced today the newest model Rubin 102 TV set is being withdrawn from sale because of so many complaints that it doesn't work.

The Associated Press has two Rubins for covering news events. Both are out of order and the agency that looks after foreign residents said it doubted they could be repaired by May Day.

Gower Champion in Hospital, Needs Rest

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gower Champion, dancer and stage producer, is hospitalized. The diagnosis: exhaustion. The treatment: rest.

His physician said Champion collapsed Tuesday while preparing for a road show production in San Francisco of his Broadway show, "Bye, Bye, Birdie." He was admitted to Cedars of Lebanon Hospital for several days' rest.

Network Plans To Lengthen TV Commercials

Sponsors Upset by Decision, Feel Time Stolen From Shows

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Those commercials-filled moments between TV programs may soon be even longer and more commercials-filled than ever.

The American Broadcasting Company has decided to expand its "station breaks" between programs next season from 30 to 42 seconds. If it goes through with its plans, the other two competitive networks will be forced to follow suit.

Meanwhile, the expansion is causing a fierce behind-the-scenes controversy, particularly by sponsors of network programs, who feel it is done at their expense.

In theory, station breaks are designed to give local broadcasting stations an opportunity to identify themselves between programs.

In practice, most stations use a few seconds to flash their call letters on the home screens—and devote the rest of the time to profitable local commercials. And although the television code of the National Association of Broadcasters, to which most subscribe, states specifically that station breaks shall include "not more than two announcements," they are often jammed with three short commercials, a frowned-upon practice called "triple-spotting."

Network advertisers deplore the plan because they figure the extra seconds will be taken from their programs. Oliver Treyz, president of ABC, defends it on the ground it will provide extra revenue for local stations.

Nobody has asked the viewers who they feel about further commercial encroachment on their "free" TV, but it wouldn't be hard to guess their answer.

Broderick Crawford, who has been away from television since the end of his syndicated "Highway Patrol" series a couple of seasons back, returns next season with a new action series, "King of Diamonds," playing a security man for the jewel industry.

Darryl Hickman, one of the stars of NBC's "The Americans," wrote the script for Sunday night's Loretta Young Show.

After all these years of conspiring to keep "Lassie's" secret from the children of the audience, it leaked out in the course of her trainer's marital troubles. Ruddell B. Weatherwax was revealed as a trainer of four collies which interchange Lassie roles—a more disillusioning fact than the widespread rumor that Lassie is really a male.

The program, which is open to the public follows:

On Mighty Pens, from "The Creation" Natuergens
Donde leta from "Le Boheme" Haydn Schubert
Puccini Stravinsky
Ann Lavacek, soprano
Serenade in A Hymne Romanza
Judith Kollath, piano
Marie's Lullaby from "Wozzeck" A. Berg C. Floyd
Come back, O Summer Enid Skripka, soprano
Accompanists: Sharon Prichard, Andrea Matthis.

'Italian Straw Hat' Next Big Production Of Lawrence Theatre

David Mayer III to Direct Work by Popular 19th Century Playwright

One of the most familiar names among 19th century French playwrights will be brought to the arena stage of Lawrence Music-Drama Center May 4 through 8, when Eugene Labiche's "An Italian Straw Hat" is performed by Lawrence College Theater under the direction of David Mayer III.

Labiche is the author of an extraordinary number of plays. Late in the writer's life when the best of his works were collected, 58 were printed in 10 volumes, and this was not his entire output.

Labiche's name is especially well known to American students of 19th century theater, for his plays have been used as texts in college classrooms for 50 years. The passage of a century has done little to dull Labiche's spontaneity, and in recent years his plays have been revived by Orson Welles, Gaston Baty and Rene Clair, and in the movies.

"An Italian Straw Hat," which relates the mad chase of a wedding party the length and breadth of Paris in search of an elusive straw bonnet, was Labiche's first major success.

In rehearsals, however, the theater's director thought the subject matter so slight that he accepted it only for summer performance during Paris's traditional dead season and refused to attend its premiere. The opening was acclaimed however; one of the spectators laughed himself into an attack of apoplexy. It ran more than 100 performances in Paris.

The whole city sang its popular songs, and it was taken on endless tours of the provinces.

Man of His Time
Of Labiche, a biographer has written: "No one is more representative of his time and class than Labiche. His life was marked by no untoward incident nor was it touched by any suspicion of impropriety. He was the embodiment of those virtues which the bourgeois society of the day had imposed upon itself and he reaped the rewards with which such virtues were acknowledged; a seat in the Academy, a place in the repertoire of the Comedie Francaise and the Cross of the Legion of Honor, bestowed upon him by the Emperor Napoleon III himself."

With Offenbach, Labiche reigned supreme over the popular Paris theater. In one four-year period, he wrote 19 successful plays. Labiche worked with a long series of collaborators—20 in all—of whom Marc-Michel was most brilliant. "An Italian Straw Hat" is the product of their collaboration.

When Orson Welles and Edwin Denby adapted the play for a federal theater project in 1936, under the title "Horse Eats Hat," other persons involved in the enterprise included Paul Bowles, who wrote the music, Virgil Thomson, who orchestrated it, and actors Joseph Cotten, Paula Lawrence and Arlene Francis.

Comments on Play
One comment was: "Welles used a great deal of brilliantly inventive horseplay—squirting fountains, collapsing chairs, crashing backdrops, a prologue consisting of a pantomime of a prop horse eating a Leghorn hat; a musical intermission supplied by a nickleodeon and a lady trumpeter dressed in a Hussar's uniform."

The New York Times wrote: "It was as though Gertrude Stein had dreamed a dream after a late supper of pickles and ice cream, the ensuing revelations being crisply acted by giants and midgets, caricatures, lunatics and a prop nag."

Tickets for the production are available week days at the Lawrence College Theater box office from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 4 to 6 p.m.

Vote of Confidence For GE Executive

Cordiner's Hand Strengthened By Stockholders of Company

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Ralph J. Cordiner, General Electric Co. chief executive, emerged today with a strengthened hand after an accounting to stockholders on GE's price fixing troubles.

But thunderbolts loomed in Washington, where his turn was awaited before Senate investigators to clear up testimony linking the GE top brass with admitted antitrust offenses of second echelon officials.

Sometimes unruly

Then the directors, overwhelmingly re-elected, in a sometimes unruly, 6½ hour session renewed Cordiner's tenure as chairman and gave him in addition the title of GE president.

Cordiner, 61, had doubled as acting president since the early retirement in February of Robert Paxton from that position. Paxton gave reasons of health for laying down his duties.

Paxton has been invited to appear before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee.

Most but not all of the annual meeting fireworks were touched off by James B. Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers, and Wilma Soss of New York, president of the Women's Shareholders in America.

Showdown Vote

In a showdown vote on their main proposition, Carey and Mrs. Soss were smothered by a ballot of 69,656,355 to 1,404,850.

By that margin, their demand was rejected for an independent inquiry to determine whether Cordiner and other directors should "reasonably" have known of illegal activities within the company before federal antitrust indictments were handed up naming 16 company officials.

The outcome Wednesday was a foregone conclusion since management held proxies from a vast majority of the company's 436,000 stockholders. About 2,800 of them attended the meeting.

Angry Moment

In an angry moment, Mrs. Soss had shouted at Cordiner, who presided: "I am your enemy. You're not an act of God."

Rallying to Cordiner's defense was Benjamin A. Javits, president of the United Shareholders of America and a brother of Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

Javits praised the way Cordiner "cleaned our house so swiftly and completely" and said GE stockholders "have much to be proud of."

By votes of 98 per cent and more, shareholders turned down seven other resolutions opposed by management, including three more sponsored by Carey in relation to price-fixing and three designed to curb the GE stock option program for executives.

Lower Sales, Prices Cut Net Income At Container Corp.

Slightly reduced sales and lower prices cut first quarter net income of Container Corp. of America.

"Volume for 1961 will be very close to or slightly higher than last year," Wesley M. Dixon, chairman and president, said after the annual meeting at Chicago.

"We are very encouraged by volume, but so far there is no sign of firming in the industry's prices," he added. He said prices of some of the company's products are 4 per cent below a year ago.

The company reported net in the quarter ended March 31 was $4,111,000, or 38 cents a common share, compared with $4,719,000, or 43 cents a share, a year earlier. Sales slipped to $78,249,000 from $78,304,000. Last year, Container Corp. had record sales of $82,750,000. Dixon declined to make any earnings or dividend forecasts.

Mr. Dixon said the company has been able to reduce operating costs below a year ago, though not enough to offset the lower prices.

Unfavorable Reception for Consumer Unit

Plan Criticized In Hearing Before Senate Committee

MADISON (AP)—A proposal to create a state "consumers' counsel" to guard Wisconsin residents against unfair trade practices was criticized at a Senate Judiciary Committee hearing Wednesday.

Proposed by Gov. Gaylord Nelson, the plan would transfer from the Agriculture Department to the attorney general the power to investigate alleged unfair, trade practices and to issue orders to halt such practices.

Sen. Earl D. Morton, R-Kenosha, a committee member, questioned the possibility of political pressure being brought to bear on the attorney general, an elected official.

Broad Power

"Especially after hearing his type of politicking, I would be very much upset to give the attorney general this broad power," said Morton.

Nelson said in a statement that some modern unfair trade practices are so involved, "not even the most intelligent consumer" can recognize them.

Besides the transfer of investigative powers, the bill also would allow the attorney general to initiate actions without the outside complaint now required. It also would boost the maximum fine for violators from $1,000 to $5,000.

George F. Sieker, an assistant attorney general, said complaints of unfair trade practices increase in a recession, such as the country has been experiencing.

"Much of this is scarcely above a con game," said Sieker.

John Kremer of Madison, representing the Wisconsin Retail Gasoline Dealers, supported the plan. He said the violators of the unfair trade practices statute would be much more likely to comply with an order from the attorney general's office than one sent under an Agriculture Department letterhead.

Dangerous Transfer

But A. E. Madler of Madison, representing the Wisconsin Food and Tobacco Institute, said it was "dangerous to transfer this type of power to a political office."

Morton and Sen. Jerris Leonard, R-Milwaukee, also questioned the wisdom of allowing the attorney general's office to hold a hearing and issue an order on the basis of its own investigation.

Sieker said persons affected by the orders could appeal to the courts. Many state and federal agencies operate in this manner, he added.

The only alternative would be for the Legislature to set up a separate hearing agency, said Sieker.

"We only bring a case where it is fairly aggravated," he added.

Leonard, who said he had high praise for the department's personnel in their handling of such cases, also said he believed the bill would be just as effective without referring to the new position as "consumer counsel."

Million-Dollar Estate Left by Oshkosh Man

OSHKOSH — An estate of $1,019,558 was left by the late William J. Roemer, former New London lumberman who died Dec. 17, 1959, an assignment in probate filed here showed Wednesday.

Roemer's widow will receive about $519,244 of the total. Other beneficiaries include relatives, the Mount Alverno Retreat House, Appleton and St. Joseph Cemetery here.

New Magazine to Have Beck Story

The magazine originates in the Milwaukee suburb of Brookfield, and will be published monthly except July and August by the Country Beautiful Foundation, a non-profit organization. F. J. Sensenbrenner, Neenah, is treasurer of the foundation.

Dr. Beck has used the Biblical Cain and Abel theme as the foundation for his story.
